HISTORY OF 2 OLD BUILDINGS IS RECOUNTED

Papers on the National Homestead for Soldiers' Orphans, which was opened last week as Cliff Arquette's Soldiers' Museum on Baltimore St., and the 170-year-old brownstone Codori residence on York St. were read at the March meeting of the Adams County Historical Society Tuesday evening at the court house.

Both papers, written by Junior Historians in the American History class at Gettysburg High School in the last few years, were read by other Junior Historians.

The paper on the 10-year history of the orphans' home from 1866 to 1876 was written four years ago by Rolf Johnson and Peter Pennington and was read Tuesday by Johnson's sister, Janet, now a high school student. The Codori homestead history was written last year by Robert Codori and read by his cousin, Michael Codori.

"Tragic Failure"

The paper on the orphans' home related that soon after the battle here the idea of founding a home here for needy children of men who had fallen in battle at Gettysburg was proposed. The project met "ready support" and buildings were erected within sight of the National Cemetery. It was supported by gifts of individuals and Sunday Schools.

The incident that is credited with inspiring the orphanage idea here was the finding of the body of a Union soldier with a picture of his three children grasped in his lifeless hand. The children were identified as members of the Huniston family of Portville, N. Y., who later entered the orphanage and their mother became a member of the staff. The orphanage opened in 1866 and was incorporated the next spring. Newspaper accounts of the inauguration of the orphanage were included in the paper. Henry Ward Beecher and other notables attended.

The nine "golden years" of the orphanage and its final closing down after criminal prosecutions were brought against the matron,

17 PROPOSED FOR COUNTY'S HALL OF FAME

A committee of the Adams County Historical Society, headed by William C. Darrah, has started work on gathering data and pictures on 17 nominees for the "Adams County Hall of Fame" to be established by the society.

Chairman Darrah told the society Tuesday evening that biographical sketches and pictures will be collected for each of the nominees and then plans will be made for their display, probably in a special section of the society's museum.

He said volunteers are sought to collect the material and pictures on the persons proposed for the "Hall of Fame." As an example, he read a sketch already prepared on David Wills, distinguished Gettysburg citizen of the last century who was the first county superintendent of schools, one of the organizers of the National Cemetery and Lincoln's host here on November 18 and 19, 1863. The committee has a picture of Judge Wills.

Others on whom the committee seeks sketches and photos are the Rev. Alexander Dobbin, U. S. Senator James Cooper, Charles Morris Young, the only living person on the list; Dr. Samuel Agnew, Dr. Michael Jacobs, Elsie Singmaster Lewars, Herman Haupt, Henry Stahle, Edward McPherson, William Wierman Wright, Rev. Samuel Schmucker, James Getzys, Dr. Henry Stewart, Jennie Wade, Hance Hamilton and Thaddeus Stevens.

The "Hall of Fame" project was proposed last year by President Sheads and was given approval by the society and a committee named to develop the plan to honor the outstanding men and women of this county.

Use 'Copter In 10-Mile Test Of Weed Control Along RR

While railway engineers and members of the international boundaries commission looked on Tuesday afternoon Dr. Carroll Voss, Gettysburg R 1 helicopter pilot, took part in a weed and brush control demonstration along the Western Maryland which may revolutionize control work along the nation's railways.

Dr. Voss covered a ten-mile stretch of the Western Maryland railway west from Willoughby Run placing 53 pounds per "mile-acre" of new dry pellets developed by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. along the right away of the track. A "mile-acre" is an area eight feet wide by a mile long.

James Mullen, du Pont engineer, explained to the assemblage of 30 railway men and others at a luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg prior to the flight that two types of new materials are used: Dybar designed with a solubility of 3,200 parts per million in water, and Karnex, which has a solubility ratio of 40 parts per million. Because of its great solubility in water the first rain will sink the Dybar six inches into the ground so that it will go into the roots of brush. The other, because of its relatively low solubility, will go only one inch into the ground and thus kill the grass.

Explain Advantages

Mullen explained that the dry materials were developed because of the difficulty of obtaining sufficient water for sprays along the railway right of ways, and for ease in distribution by helicopter — thus doing away with special crews and equipment that would use the railroad and cause difficulties in scheduling trains, etc.

Another reason for developing the new materials, Mullen explained, is the problem of timing. With many present materials, the spray must be put on when the plants are in foliage. With the dry type, the material attacks

MARTIN SHOE STORE OPENS IN NEW LOCATION

The man who would "just as soon sell shoes as eat" now has more room in which to engage in his favorite occupation. George R. Martin, proprietor of Martin's shoe store, is holding his formal grand opening in his new storeroom, 26 Baltimore St., Friday.

The new stop, part of the former A & P Store, is Martin's fourth on the street and is about twice as large as his previous location. The veteran merchant is in his 41st year on Baltimore St.

Martin "is a shoe man" and he has "fathered a shoe family." Five of his seven children are either in the shoe business or married to someone who is. His son, Robert, is manager of the store here and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Lou Gallagher, works in the store. A son-in-law, William Strayer, of Fayetteville, helps in the store part time.

Another son-in-law, Richard Fidler, now owns the Martin shoe store in York. That store was started by Martin several years ago with Fidler as manager. Martin later sold it to his son-in-law and daughter who continue it in the Martin name.

Still another son-in-law is man-

Pioneer IV Due To Near Moon At 5:24 P.M. Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pioneer IV streaked close to the level of the moon today in America's most successful probe into the mysteries of the farther reaches of space.

The tracking station at Goldstone Dry Lake in the Mojave Desert re-established radio contact at 7:33 a.m. EST and reported the gold-plated cone 192,000 miles out, with its seed down to 4,775 miles an hour.

An hour and a half later, at 9 a.m., new contacts showed a distance of192,323 miles and a speed of 4,742 miles an hour.

The probe was still on its near-miss course past the moon toward a predicted orbit around the sun where Soviet Union claims it already has a satellite.

Revised calculations indicated the space traveler would make its closest approach to the moon at 5:24 p.m., or about 37,000 miles away. Scientists gave themselves a plus-or-minus allowance of 2,000 miles on the distance computation.

At that time the Pioneer should be 239,000 miles from earth. That is more than the distance to the moon itself because of the slight error in flight angle which will carry the Pioneer farther to one side of the moon than the scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had hoped. They had aimed at something inside of 10,000 miles.

The Goldstone station, which had been out of touch with the Pioneer for more than 15 hours at the time of the 7:33 contact, expected to lose touch again around 4 p.m. as the trajectory and the earth's rotation carried the probe below the horizon.

ASK CONGRESS TO PROTECT BATTLEFIELD

The State Senate in Harrisburg Tuesday approved the bi-partisan resolution introduced by Sen. Douglas Elliott, of the Adams-Franklin district, and Sen. Israel Stiesel, of Philadelphia, urging support of the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress for legislation which would preserve the Battlefield of Gettysburg.

The resolution follows:

"The Battlefield of Gettysburg is one of the most sacred historical shrines in Pennsylvania and the United States as the scene of the great battle on July 1-3, 1863, which marked the turning point in the Civil War.

"As the result of the initiative of Gov. Andrew G. Curtin and of other Northern governors the site of the battle became a National Cemetery and Park which eventually passed into the control of the Federal Government.

Face New Threat

"The plans for the continuing development of the Gettysburg National Military Park, which call for the eventual inclusion in the park of the entire area where the battle was fought, are seriously threatened by commercial enterprises which are stimulated by the volume of visitors to the park, therefore be it:

"Resolved, that the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby recommends to the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress that they support any legislation and appropriation which will protect the environs of the Battlefield of Gettysburg from encroachment by commercial enterprises and housing which may prevent the full and complete restoration of the Gettysburg National Military Park by the National Park Service; and be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each U. S. senator and representative from Pennsylvania."

TELLS CLUB OF TOWN PROJECT

The work of a small Tennessee community in civic improvement was outlined Monday evening by the Rev. Dr. B. B. Mauer, Harrisburg, at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club at Bankert's restaurant. He showed slides of the progress of the Chrokee community which established a record with its program of "Better Homes on Better Farms For A Better Community."

The community was established in eastern Tennessee when the Tennessee Valley Authority moved a large number of people from their homes in the valleys to high land, which often was less desirable for farming.

Dr. Mauer outlined how the churches and community service clubs united in encouraging the

President Sees Lessening Of Red Tension

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Russia's latest note on Germany indicates a lessening of rigidity of the Soviet position.

He said the U. S. government is taking as optimistic a view as possible of the outlook in the light of the Soviet note.

In that note, delivered to the Western Allies earlier this week, Russia reluctantly agreed to a foreign ministers conference on the Berlin problem. But the Kremlin specified its own terms regarding what is to be included in the discussions.

He added that the Western Allies will do everything possible to come up with a constructive reply to Moscow's note.

He said this country is always willing to negotiate when there is evidence the other side is ready to bargain in good faith.

SHERMAN HOME IS RANSACKED BY BURGLARS

The residence of Mares Sherman, 123 E. Broadway, was broken into and ransacked Tuesday, but the buglars took only personal papers which so far as could be known would be of no value to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman are vacationing in Florida. Their daughter, Miss JoAnn Sherman, resides at the house. A teacher at New Oxford, she left early Tuesday morning for her teaching duties and did not return until 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

She found a pane of glass had been broken from a kitchen door leading off a breezeway. Intruders had opened the door and gone through the house, rooting through drawers, and strewing things about.

There were burned paper matches throughout the house, even in bureau drawers, as if the intruders had used the matches to look for some valuable items.

2nd In Neighborhood

A check showed all furnishings of the house intact, although pushed about. The only items that could not be accounted for were Miss Sherman's passport, birth certificate and other personal papers.

Borough police are continuing their investigation.

The home of former Sheriff Dorsey J. Schultz, nearby, was entered recently while Mr. and Mrs. Schultz were visiting a son in Fairfield. At the Schultz home a door off a breezeway was the one used for the forced entrance. The house there was also ransacked, with burnt paper matches lying about. At the Schultz home money and articles totaling several hundred dollars were taken, but also taken were Schultz's application for his car license and a check to accompany the application.

Says General Mobilization Is Disastrous

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it would not only be futile but disastrous for the free world to have general mobilization against possible attack.

Eisenhower told his news conference that the present 15-minute alert maintained by the Strategic Air Command is completely appropriate for world conditions.

The President was asked if he believes the strategic bombing force should be put on an air alert with part of its planes airborne at all times.

Not under present circumstances, the President replied.

He said airborne bombers would be worse than useless against bombing attacks — that they are better off on the ground.

Plan For Future

Eisenhower said the day probably will come when it will be necessary to have some planes airborne at all times to counter possible missile attacks.

Eisenhower also was asked if he believes mobilization of NATO forces should be one of the steps to be taken to insure maintaining the Western world's access to Berlin.

He replied that general mobilization would mean that each nation in the free world would become a garrison state. Such mobilization, he said, would mean keeping each nation on a basis of readiness all the time. This, he said, would drain civilian resources.

TO ADDRESS CWRT

Dr. Frederick Tilberg, historian at the Gettysburg National Park, will speak this evening at 7:30 o'clock at a meeting of the Susquehanna Civil War Round Table, Bucknell University, Lewisburg, on "Some Considerations of Battle Tactics, July 2 and 3."

Cites European Areas Where Forces Should Be Limited

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today he would consult with the Western Allies on a disengagement in Central Europe.

He told Parliament in a report on his 10-day visit to the Soviet Union that he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "had a useful, and I think, constructive discussion, in private, on this matter."

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the opposition Labor party, said the most important part of the communique on the Khrushchev-Macmillan talks was "the agreement between the two governments that there is the possibility of an area of Central Europe in which forces should be limited, both nuclear and conventional."

Gaitskell asked if Macmillan felt reasonably certain that this art of the communiue would be supported by Britain's allies.

Macmillan replied that "It is one of the matters that, in my view, must be further studied together with all the countries concerned and it is partly one of my purposes to take up that and other uestions."

Macmillan said he and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will visit Paris and Bonn next week and that he hoped to arrange a visit to Washington soon after that at President Eisenhower's invitation.

17 PROPOSED FOR COUNTY'S HALL OF FAME

A committee of the Adams County Historical Society, headed by William C. Darrah, has started work on gathering data and pictures on 17 nominees for the "Adams County Hall of Fame" to be established by the society.

Chairman Darrah told the society Tuesday evening that biographical sketches and pictures will be collected for each of the nominees and then plans will be made for their display, probably in a special section of the society's museum.

Use 'Copter In 10-Mile Test Of Weed Control Along RR

While railway engineers and members of the international boundaries commission looked on Tuesday afternoon Dr. Carroll Voss, Gettysburg R. 1 helicopter pilot, took part in a weed and brush control demonstration along the Western Maryland which may revolutionize control work along the nation's railways.

Dr. Voss covered a ten-mile stretch of the Western Maryland railway west from Willoughby Run placing 58 pounds per "mile-acre" of new dry pellets developed by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. along the right away of the track. A "mile-acre" is an area eight feet wide by a mile long.

James Mullen, du Pont engineer, explained to the assemblage of 30 railway men and others at a luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg prior to the flight that two types of new materials are used; Dybar designed with a solubility of 3,200 parts per million in water, and Karnex, which has a solubility ratio of 40 parts per million. Because of its great solubility in water the first rain will sink the Dybar six inches into the ground so that it will go into the roots of brush. The other, because of its relatively low solubility, will go only one inch into the ground and thus kill the grass.

Explain Advantages

Mullen explained that the dry materials were developed because of the difficulty of obtaining sufficent water for sprays along the railway right of ways, and for ease in distribution by helicopter — thus doing away with special crews and equipment that would use the railroad and cause difficuties in scheduling trains, etc.

Another reason for developing the new materials, Mullen explained, is the problem of timing. With many present materials, the spray must be put on when the plants are in foliage. With the dry type, the material attacks

MARTIN SHOE STORE OPENS IN NEW LOCATION

The man who would "just as soon sell shoes as eat" now has more room in which to engage in his favorite occupation. George R. Martin, proprietor of Martin's show store, is holding his formal grand opening in his new storeroom, 26 Baltimore St., Friday.

The new stop, part of the former A & P Store, is Martin's fourth on the street and is about twice as large as his previous location. The veteran merchant is in his 41st year on Baltimore St.

Martin "is a shoe man" and he has "fathered a shoe family." Five of his seven children are either in the shoe business or married to someone who is. His son, Robert, is manager of the store here and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Lou Gallagher, works in the store. A son-in-law, William Strayer, of Fayetteville, helps in the store part time.

Another son-in-law, Richard Fidler, now owns the Martin shoe store in York. That store was started by Martin several years ago with Fidler as manager. Martin later sold it to his son-in-law and daughter who continue it in the Martin name.

Pioneer IV Due To Near Moon At 5:24 P.M. Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pioneer IV streaked close to the level of the moon today in America's most successful probe into the mysteries of the farther reaches of space.

e3$space.

The tracking station at Goldstone Dry Lake in the Mojave Desert re-established radio contact at 7:33 a.m. EST and reported the gold-plated cone 192,000 miles out, with its seed down to 4,775 miles an hour.

An hour and a half later, at 9 a.m., new contacts showed a distance of198,323 miles and a speed of 4,742 miles an hour.

The probe was still on its near-miss course past the moon toward a predicted orbit around the sun where Soviet Union claims it already has a satellite.

Revised calculations indicated the space traveler would make its closest approach to the moon at 5:24 p.m., or about 37,000 miles away. Scientists gave themselves a plus-or-minus allowance of 2,000 miles on the distance computation.

At that time the Pioneer should be 239,000 miles from earth. That is more than the distance to the moon itself because of the slight error in flight angle which will carry the Pioneer farther to one side of the moon than the scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had hoped. They had aimed at something inside of 10,000 miles

The Goldstone station, which had been out of touch with the Pioneer for more than 15 hours at the time of the 7:33 contact, expected to lose touch again around 4 p.m. as the trajectory and the earth's rotation carried the probe below the horizon.

ASK CONGRESS TO PROTECT BATTLEFIELD

The State Senate in Harrisburg Tuesday approved the bi-partisan resolution introduced by Sen. Douglas Elliott, of the Adams-Franklin district, and Sen. Israel Stiesel, of Philadelphia, urging support of the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress for legislation which would preserve the Battlefield of Gettysburg.

The resolution follows:

"The Battlefield of Gettysburg is one of the most sacred historical shrines in Pennsylvania and the United States as the scene of the great battle on July 1-3, 1863, which marked the turning point in the Civil War.

"As the result of the initiative of Gov. Andrew G. Curtin and of other Northern governors the site of the battle became a National Cemetery and Park which eventually passed into the control of the Federal Government.

Face New Threat

"The plans for the continuing development of the Gettysburg National Military Park, which call for the eventual inclusion in the park of the entire area where the battle was fought, are seriously threatened by commercial enterprises which are stimulated by the volume of visitors to the park, therefore be it:

"Resolved, that the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby recommends to the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress that they support any legislation and appropriation which will protect the environs of the Battlefield of Gettysburg from encroachment by commercial enterprises and housing which may prevent the full and complete restoration of the Gettysburg National Military Park by the National Park Service; and be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each U. S. senator and representative from Pennsylvania."

TELLS CLUB OF TOWN PROJECT

The work of a small Tennessee community in civic improvement was outlined Monday evening by the Rev. Dr. B. B. Mauer, Harrisburg, at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club at Bankert's restaurant. He showed slides of the progress of the Chrokee community which established a record with its program of "Better Homes on Better Farms For A Better Community."

The community was established in eastern Tennessee when the Tennessee Valley Authority moved a large number of people from their homes in the valleys to high land, which often was less desirable for farming.

Dr. Mauer outlined how the churches and community service clubs united in encouraging the

President Sees Lessening Of Red Tension

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Russia's latest note on Germany indicates a lessening of rigidity of the Soviet position.

He said the U. S. government is taking as optimistic a view as possible of the outlook in the light of the Soviet note.

In that note, delivered to the Western Allies earlier this week, Russia reluctantly agreed to a foreign ministers conference on the Berlin problem. But the Kremlin specified its own terms regarding what is to be included in the discussions.

He added that the Western Allies will do everything possible to come up with a constructive reply to Moscow's note.

He said this country is always willing to negotiate when there is evidence the other side is ready to bargain in good faith.

Cites European Areas Where Forces Should Be Limited

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today he would consult with the Western Allies on a disengagement in Central Europe.

He told Parliament in a report on his 10-day visit to the Soviet Union that he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "had a useful, and I think, constructive discussion, in private, on this matter."

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the opposition Labor party, said the most important part of the communique on the Khrushchev-Macmillan talks was "the agreement between the two governments that there is the possibility of an area of Central Europe in which forces should be limited, both nuclear and conventional."

Gaitskell asked if Macmillan felt reasonably certain that this art of the communiue would be supported by Britain's allies.

Macmillan replied that "It is one of the matters that, in my view, must be further studied together with all the countries concerned and it is partly one of my purposes to take up that and other uestions."

Macmillan said he and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will visit Paris and Bonn next week and that he hoped to arrange a visit to Washington soon after that at President Eisenhower's invitation.

SHERMAN HOME IS RANSACKED BY BURGLARS

The residence of Mares Sherman, 123 E. Broadway, was broken into and ransacked Tuesday, but the buglars took only personal papers which so far as could be known would be of no value to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman are vacationing in Florida. Their daughter, Miss JoAnn Sherman, resides at the house. A teacher at New Oxford, she left early Tuesday morning for her teaching duties and did not return until 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

She found a pane of glass had been broken from a kitchen door leading off a breezeway. Intruders had opened the door and gone through the house, rooting through drawers, and strewing things about.

There were burned paper matches throughout the house, even in bureau drawers, as if the intruders had used the matches to look for some valuable items.

2nd In Neighborhood

A check showed all furnishings of the house intact, although pushed about. The only items that could not be accounted for were Miss Sherman's passport, birth certificate and other personal papers.

Borough police are continuing their investigation.

The home of former Sheriff Dorsey J. Schultz, nearby, was entered recently while Mr. and Mrs. Schultz were visiting a son in Fairfield. At the Schultz home a door off a breezeway was the one used for the forced entrance. The house there was also ransacked, with burnt paper matches lying about. At the Schultz home money and articles totaling several hundred dollars were taken, but also taken were Schultz's application for his car license and a check to accompany the application.

Says General Mobilization Is Disastrous

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it would not only be futile but disastrous for the free world to have general mobilization against possible attack.

Eisenhower told his news conference that the present 15-minute alert maintained by the Strategic Air Command is completely appropriate for world conditions.

The President was asked if he believes the strategic bombing force should be put on an air alert with part of its planes airborne at all times.

Not under present circumstances, the President replied.

He said airborne bombers would be worse than useless against bombing attacks — that they are better off on the ground.

Plan For Future

Eisenhower said the day probably will come when it will be necessary to have some planes airborne at all times to counter possible missile attacks.

Eisenhower also was asked if he believes mobilization of NATO forces should be one of the steps to be taken to insure maintaining the Western world's access to Berlin.

He replied that general mobilization would mean that each nation in the free world would become a garrison state. Such mobilization, he said, would mean keeping each nation on a basis of readiness all the time. This, he said, would drain civilian resources.

TO ADDRESS CWRT

Dr. Frederick Tilberg, historian at the Gettysburg National Park, will speak this evening at 7:30 o'clock at a meeting of the Susquehanna Civil War Round Table, Bucknell University, Lewisburg, on "Some Considerations of Battle Tactics, July 2 and 3."

Y-Teens Are Seeking Work

"Don't do it yourself, let us do it," is the advice of the Y-teens.

The organization has embarked on a campaign to raise funds and, to do so, is providing the services of its members for all kinds of add jobs. Some of the jobs they will undertake include ironing, sewing, carwashing, dish-washing, baby sitting, typing, house cleaning, window washing and garage cleaning. And just about anything else, they say.

They invite calls for their services today and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m., phone 1090. Their work days are Saturdays, March 7 and 14.

DEMOCRATS PUSH BUNDLE OF TOP BILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders are driving to lay controversial housing and airport aid bills on President Eisenhower's desk before Congress takes a 10-day Easter vacation March 26.

There also is a possibility that both houses will agree on a bill to grant statehood to Hawaii and that the Senate may get around to acting on a labor reform measure in the next three weeks.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) obviously want to pile up a substantial record of legislative action as quickly as possible in an effort to show that the Democratic Congress is keeping on its toes.

Veto Possible

The Senate has passed both housing and airport aid bills far exceeding Eisenhower's proposals. Similar measures with smaller money totals, have been approved by House committees but not yet scheduled for floor action.

But the House committee bills still go beyond what Eisenhower asked, and unless the House makes further cuts when it acts upon them, the possibility of presidential vetoes will remain.

Vetoes of these measures obviously would anger some of the Democrats who have been going along with the party leadership in efforts to stay within Eisenhower's total spending estimates so that the Democrats cannot be blamed for a budget deficit. They might seek to override these vetoes and, if they succeeded, go on to higher spending.

The leaders apparently believe they can stay within the limits of Eisenhower's money requests by cutting deeply into departmental administrative costs, revamping his farm program proposals and shaving foreign aid outlays.

FATHER KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (AP) — A 40-year-old father of six children was killed and his teenaged son injured critically Saturday when their loaded coal truck went through a guard rail on a mountain road and hurtled down an embankment.

5 TOWNSHIPS GRANTED AID

County aid applications by five townships were approved today by the Adams County Commissioners at their meeting in the court house.

Huntington Twp. will receive $2,437.38; Freedom, $669.16; Hamiltonban, $1,802.73; Oxford, $1,129.22, and Union, $1,233.48. The county commissioners have allocated a total of $46,336.39 for county aid this year. The money is provided by the state's tax on liquid fuels.

The commissioners also signed papers which will release another Gettysburg property from the ground rent which was placed on it by James Gettys 159 years ago when the county seat was established here. The property was that of Andrew J. Florence on the north side of E. Middle St.

The usual $25 fee was paid to be released of the ground rent. While the rents have not been paid for possibly a century or more, and it is thought the comclaims on the vast majority of the town on which ground rents were placed, a few "every now and then" appear with the ground rents still in the deed, the commissioners noted.

SHOWS VISION TEST TO CLUB

Mrs. Miriam C. Hartzell, school nurse at Fairfield Joint Schools, demonstrated the Green vision test machine which the Fairfield Lions Club purchased for the schools at a meeting of the club Tuesday evening in the Lutheran parish house. Thirty members attended and were served a baked ham dinner.

Mrs. Hartzell also told the Lions of the physical and dental examinations of pupils in the school, conducted by Dr. Ira M. Henderson and Dr. Joseph H. Riley, respectively. She described the clothing bank at the school. This, she said, is a reserve supply of new and used clothing which is made available for her to privide for needs she discovers in the course of her combined duties of school nurse and home visitor.

She reported that vision tests had disclosed defects in 90 pupils. Of these, 54 have been corrected, she said, and the others are in the process of correction.

Mrs. Hartzell was introduced by Clarence Wilson, chairman of the sight committee which had charge of the program. William Schultz, club president, conducted the meeting.

Another Paper Is Filed In Equity Case

An answer was filed today by Attorney Edward B. Bulleit for Walter J. Hamm Jr. in the equity action of Hugh K. Hamm, Hanover R. D., against his nephew, Walter Jr. Hamm Jr., New Oxford R. D.

The court had directed an accounting of the operation of a jointly operated farm and Walter Hamm had filed his "first and final account."

Hugh Hamm's attorneys then filed a petition asking Walter Hamme to show cause why the account should not be stricken as incomplete and "the defendant be declared in contempt of court."

In the answer, it was held that the account gave only totals for the operation of the farm year by year, because of the "tremendous number of items" and that it would be "unreasonable" to ask filing of an account showing each item of income and expenditure over a period of years. The answer held that the various bills and records are available to Hugh Hamm if he wishes to minutely inspect the record—the total figures of which are given in the original account.

"LOVE AND BELIEVE"

The white snows of winter will fade away . . . the blossoms of summer will die . . . but nothing will alter my love for you . . . it strengthens as time rolls by . . . the storm clouds above us will pass from view . . . and someday the stars will grow cold . . . but our love, my darling, is here to stay . . . true love will never grow old . . . even the mountains will tumble down . . . as centuries come and go . . . but always and always our love will flame . . . eternally it will glow . . . and when God above deems that we must part . . . whoever remains must not grieve . . . for we'll meet again in a better place . . . because we love and believe.

Edward E. Shetter Cited For Service

R/3C Edward E. Shetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Shetter, recently received a commendation for performance of duty during the period December 31, 1958, during a continuous 3-day blizzard at the U. S. Naval Station, Argentia, Newfoundland.

"Although other departments and activities on the station were not only operating at a reduced level and in some cases, completely shut down, the operation of the center continued in a normal manner, the watch being relieved every eight hours, around the clock. The absentee period for the center during the period was only one per cent. To achieve this figure required that the men of the Communications Department walk to work even during the worst periods of the storm; some of these walks involved distances up to five miles," according to the commendation.

a Mrs. Rosa Carmichael, because of mistreatment of the children, were described. "Once the pride of Gettysburg, the home became one of the most tragic failures in Gettysburg's history," the paper observed. The home at times had as many as 100 children.

Started Tradition

President J. M. Sheads, who presided at the meeting, noted that the custom of having children lead the Memorial Day procession here originated with the orphanage children in their happier years. Within a decade they were confined to the grounds of the orphanage and could only watch May 30 proceedings from their enclosure.

When the orphanage closed in December, 1876, the nine children remaining there were turned over to relatives or taken to another orphanage in Philadelphia. Members of the society attending the meeting noted that during the years since that time, many of the orphans have returned here to visit the building in which they once lived.

The paper on the Codori house traced the deed to the Codori property back to James Gettys, founder of the town, whose home stood nearby. Gettys deeded Lot 87 to Michael Hoke, another pioneer local resident, for "three pounds and 15 shillings of the real gold and silver money of Pennsylvania." The original deed is in the hands of the Codori family heirs. The dwelling, described as one of the oldest in Gettysburg and "most unique" in the town, is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Codori. The land was part of land Gettys had received in a grant from the Penns.

Have Old Deeds

The deeds covering title changes in the property until it was bought in 1843 by Nicholas Codori, grandfather of William F. Codori, are in the possession of the William Codori family today. The date of the erection of the house is uncertain but is placed at "more than 170 years ago." It has high ceilings, stone walls resting on foundations more than two feet thick. The home was used by soldiers and welfare organizations during the Civil War and one room on the second floor was a chapel. Although the house has been changed in a number of ways, original hand-hewn beams can be seen in the basement and hammered hardware continues in use on doors. Two of the original four fireplaces continue in use.

Accessions Listed

William C. Darrah, librarian, displayed a muster role of the 15th Regiment, Co. F, Pa. Volunteers, recently given the society by Mrs. Moticka and the Misses Anna and Alice Black of Flora Dale gave the society articles on local history by Edward McPherson and a book of Blunston license records covering licenses issued to settlers west of the Susquehanna after 1733.

The donors told the society the late John D. Keith once rescued the records from a rubbish heap and that the copy presented to the society was made with the help of Mrs. Victor Dumera.

Dr. Frederick Tiberg reported briefly for the committee seeking funds for the preservation of the old dorm at the seminary. He announced the April meeting of the historical society will present a program on the writings of Dr. Michael Jacobs.

Frank Newcomer presented the treasurer's report and discussed plans for boosting the society's membership rolls.

GUIDE TO AID JOB HUNTERS DISTRIBUTED

A new edition of the "Job Guide For Young Workers" has been received by the Gettysburg local office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service to help advise young people who are about to seek jobs, Richard P. Keagle, local office manager, announced today.

Keagle said that the U. S. Department of Labor publication will be of particular interest to high school seniors and other young people who will be entering the labor market soon. Copies of the guide have been distributed by the local office to all high schools in the area for use by students and guidance teachers.

The guide is a summary of up-to-date job information on many beginning type jobs which young people can enter and includes a description of usual duties, job characteristics, qualifications, employment prospects, advancement opportunities, and general information on where the job may be found.

Young workers about to enter the labor market who are trying to make a job choice will find the publication very helpful, Keagle said. He added that young people may read the guide themselves or explore some of the job information with the help of an Employment Service counselor when counseling service is given to graduating seniors in the participating high schools.

Keagle invited young people seeking job information to visit the local office for counseling.

MARTIN SHOE

Martin started his retail career as a clerk in a general store in East Berlin. That was in 1913. His wages were $5 a week and his work hours from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. He sold shoes "off a cracker barrel" then and believes that he could "still sell shoes off a cracker barrel if need be." Martin's new store is a far cry from the general store, cracker barrel era. It is as modern in decor and equipment as can be.

Mrs. Marguerite Funt and Miss Deborah McCullough are the other sales people.

"Good Game"

"The shoe business is a good game," Martin says. "I'm a great believer in branded merchandise which assures quality." The store sells comparatively few brands, Martin said, "but in these we have a wide selection and can fit anyone."

Martin has been in business since 1940. Before that he managed shoe stores here, Harrisburg, Reading and York. His first step into the shoe business was from the general store in East Berlin to a job as clerk in a shoe store in Lebanon.

135 ATTEND ACPA DINNER

He said during the depression the family-sized farm was the main stand-by for business. "A 60- to 80-acre farm of today should be in existence for a long time. If farmers plan to make any money from farming, they must use good management, put forth an earnest effort, and do a decent job of farming."

M. Leroy Ziegler, secretary-treasurer of the association, was the toastmaster. He reported two members, Howard Waybright, Gettysburg R. 1, and Carson Lamberson, New Oxford R. D., each sold more than 25 tickets for the banquet.

The committee in charge of the banquet included: Carl Seifrit, chairman, Lamberson, Raymond Leer, and Wilbur Waybright.

The turkey dinner was served by the Mothers' Class of the church.

Dr. Voss explained: "This is brand new. We will have to work out some new methods of distribution to do a perfect job. At present we are moving into it for the first time."

Many Key Witnesses

Flying ten feet above the track, Voss demonstrated use of a spray by helicopter, then sprayed the pellets on a long piece of tarpaper to show their distribution. Then he made the ten-mile sweep between Post 72 and 82 on the railroad. R. R. Gunderson of the Western Maryland said that test sections of the right of way beyond the ten-mile stretch treated by helicopter will be treated by various other chemicals and means now used by the railroad to determine which does the better job.

"LOVE AND BELIEVE"

The white snows of winter will fade away . . . the blossoms of summer will die . . . but nothing will alter my love for you . . . it strengthens as time rolls by . . . the storm clouds above us will pass from view . . . and someday the stars will grow cold . . . but our love, my darling, is here to stay . . . true love will never grow old . . . even the mountains will tumble down . . . as centuries come and go . . . but always and always our love will flame . . . eternally it will glow . . . and when God above deems that we must part . . . whoever remains must not grieve . . . for we'll meet again in a better place . . . because we love and believe.

Edward E. Shetter Cited For Service

R/3C Edward E. Shetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Shetter, recently received a commendation for performance of duty during the period December 31, 1958, during a continuous 3-day blizzard at the U. S. Naval Station, Argentia, Newfoundland.

"Although other departments and activities on the station were not only operating at a reduced level and in some cases, completely shut down, the operation of the center continued in a normal manner, the watch being relieved every eight hours, around the clock. The absentee period for the center during the period was only one per cent. To achieve this figure required that the men of the Communications Department walk to work even during the worst periods of the storm; some of these walks involved distances up to five miles," according to the commendation.

a Mrs. Rosa Carmichael, because of mistreatment of the children, were described. "Once the pride of Gettysburg, the home became one of the most tragic failures in Gettysburg's history," the paper observed. The home at times had as many as 100 children.

Started Tradition

President J. M. Sheads, who presided at the meeting, noted that the custom of having children lead the Memorial Day procession here originated with the orphanage children in their happier years. Within a decade they were confined to the grounds of the orphanage and could only watch May 30 proceedings from their enclosure.

When the orphanage closed in December, 1876, the nine children remaining there were turned over to relatives or taken to another orphanage in Philadelphia. Members of the society attending the meeting noted that during the years since that time, many of the orphans have returned here to visit the building in which they once lived.

The paper on the Codori house traced the deed to the Codori property back to James Gettys, founder of the town, whose home stood nearby. Gettys deeded Lot 87 to Michael Hoke, another pioneer local resident, for "three pounds and 15 shillings of the real gold and silver money of Pennsylvania." The original deed is in the hands of the Codori family heirs. The dwelling, described as one of the oldest in Gettysburg and "most unique" in the town, is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Codori. The land was part of land Gettys had received in a grant from the Penns.

Have Old Deeds

The deeds covering title changes in the property until it was bought in 1843 by Nicholas Codori, grandfather of William F. Codori, are in the possession of the William Codori family today. The date of the erection of the house is uncertain but is placed at "more than 170 years ago." It has high ceilings, stone walls resting on foundations more than two feet thick. The home was used by soldiers and welfare organizations during the Civil War and one room on the second floor was a chapel. Although the house has been changed in a number of ways, original hand-hewn beams can be seen in the basement and hammered hardware continues in use on doors. Two of the original four fireplaces continue in use.

Accessions Listed

William C. Darrah, librarian, displayed a muster role of the 13th Regiment, Co. F, Pa. Volunteers, recently given the society by Mrs. Moticka and the Misses Anna and Alice Black of Flora Dale gave the society articles on local history by Edward McPherson and a book of Blunston license records covering licenses issued to settlers west of the Susquehanna after 1733.

The donors told the society the late John D. Keith once rescued the records from a rubbish heap and that the copy presented to the society was made with the help of Mrs. Victor Duttera.

Dr. Frederick Tilberg reported briefly for the committee seeking funds for the preservation of the old dorm at the seminary. He announced the April meeting of the historical society will present a program on the writings of Dr. Michael Jacobs.

Frank Newcomer presented the treasurer's report and discussed plans for boosting the society's membership rolls.

GUIDE TO AID JOB HUNTERS DISTRIBUTED

A new edition of the "Job Guide For Young Workers" has been received by the Gettysburg local office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service to help advise young people who are about to seek jobs, Richard P. Keagle, local office manager, announced today.

Keagle said that the U. S. Department of Labor publication will be of particular interest to high school seniors and other young people who will be entering the labor market soon. Copies of the guide have been distributed by the local office to all high schools in the area for use by students and guidance teachers.

The guide is a summary of up-to-date job information on many beginning type jobs which young people can enter and includes a description of usual duties, job characteristics, qualifications, employment prospects, advancement opportunities, and general information on where the job may be found.

Young workers about to enter the labor market who are trying to make a job choice will find the publication very helpful, Keagle said. He added that young people may read the guide themselves or explore some of the job information with the help of an Employment Service counselor when counseling service is given to graduating seniors in the participating high schools.

Keagle invited young people seeking job information to visit the local office for counseling.

Martin started his retail career as a clerk in a general store in East Berlin. That was in 1913. His wages were $5 a week and his work hours from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. He sold shoes "off a cracker barrel" then and believes that he could "still sell shoes off a cracker barrel if need be." Martin's new store is a far cry from the general store, cracker barrel era. It is as modern in decor and equipment as can be.

Mrs. Marguerite Funt and Miss Deborah McCullough are the other sales people.

"Good Game"

"The shoe business is a good game," Martin says. "I'm a great believer in branded merchandise which assures quality." The store sells comparatively few brands, Martin said, "but in these we have a wide selection and can fit anyone."

Martin has been in business since 1940. Before that he managed shoe stores here, Harrisburg, Reading and York. His first step into the shoe business was from the general store in East Berlin to a job as clerk in a shoe store in Lebanon.

135 ATTEND ACPA DINNER

Approximately 135 attended the fourth annual Adams County Poultry Association banquet Tuesday evening at St. James Lutheran church. Vice President Paul Osborn welcomed the group and said it was the largest turnout in four years.

The Rev. Dr. Paul L. Reaser, pastor of the church, gave the invocation.

He said during the depression the family-sized farm was the main stand-by for business. "A 60- to 80-acre farm of today should be in existence for a long time. If farmers plan to make any money from farming, they must use good management, put forth an earnest effort, and do a decent job of farming."

M. Leroy Ziegler, secretary-treasurer of the association, was the toastmaster. He reported two members, Howard Waybright, Gettysburg R. 1, and Carson Lamberson, New Oxford R. D., each sold more than 25 tickets for the banquet.

The committee in charge of the banquet included: Carl Seifrit, chairman, Lamberson, Raymond Leer, and Wilbur Waybright.

The turkey dinner was served by the Mothers' Class of the church.

Dr. Voss explained: "This is brand new. We will have to work out some new methods of distribution to do a perfect job. At present we are moving into it for the first time."

Many Key Witnesses

Flying ten feet above the track, Voss demonstrated use of a spray by helicopter, then sprayed the pellets on a long piece of tarpaper to show their distribution. Then he made the ten-mile sweep between Post 72 and 82 on the railroad. R. R. 5 TOWNSHIPS GRANTED AID

County aid applications by five townships were approved today by the Adams County Commissioners at their meeting in the court house.

Huntington Twp. will receive $2,437.38; Freedom, $669.16; Hamiltonban, $1,802.73; Oxford, $1,129.22, and Union, $1,233.48. The county commissioners have allocated a total of $46,336.39 for county aid this year. The money is provided by the state's tax on liquid fuels.

The commissioners also signed papers which will release another Gettysburg property from the ground rent which was placed on it by James Gettys 159 years ago when the county seat was established here. The property was that of Andrew J. Florence on the north side of E. Middle St.

The usual $25 fee was paid to be released of the ground rent. While the rents have not been paid for possibly a century or more, and it is thought the complaims on the vast majority of the town on which ground rents were placed, a few "every now and then" appear with the ground rents still in the deed, the commissioners noted.

Another Paper Is Filed In Equity Case

An answer was filed today by Attorney Edward B. Bullelt for Walter J. Hamm Jr. in the equity action of Hugh K. Hamm, Hanover R. D., against his nephew, Walter Jr. Hamm Jr., New Oxford R. D.

The court had directed an accounting of the operation of a jointly operated farm and Walter Hamm had filed his "first and final account."

Hugh Hamm's attorneys then filed a petition asking Walter Hamme to show cause why the account should not be stricken as incomplete and "the defendant be declared in contempt of court."

In the answer, it was held that the account gave only totals for the operation of the farm year by year, because of the "tremendous number of items" and that it would be "unreasonable" to ask filing of an account showing each item of income and expenditure over a period of years. The answer held that the various bills and records are available to Hugh Hamm if he wishes to minutely inspect the record—the total figures of which are given in the original account.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mercury Drops To 13 Degrees Below Zero: February closed the frigid pages of its weather history Wednesday by sending the mercury down to the lowest mark in 30 years in Gettysburg and vicinity and breaking a 100-year record for protracted cold weather.

Temperatures at dawn Wednesday morning ranged from 13 degrees below zero, the local official reading, to 32 degrees below zero, the lowest unofficial mark recorded.

Dr. Henry Stewart, who records temperatures at his home on Baltimore street for the United States Weather Bureau, said that only once before in the 30 years during which he has kept temperature statistics has his recording thermometer registered less than 13 degrees below zero. That exception was in January 1904 when an all-time record of 20 degrees below zero was reported.

Today's drop in temperature followed less than three weeks after the previous "cold snap" this month on February 9, when Doctor Stewart reported an official minimum of 10 degrees below zero, with unofficial minimums running as low as 24 degrees below zero.

This was announced as representatives of the H. J. Heinz company, Pittsburgh, planned to meet farmers of Fairfield and vicinity at the Hamiltonban Consolidated school in an effort to interest them in raising tomatoes.

3-Inch Snow, Heaviest Of Winter, Blankets County; East In Grip Of Blizzard: Old Man Winter unleashed his heaviest snow barrage of the current season over the week-end and laid a fleecy blanket of white over Gettysburg and Adams county.

Between seven and eight inches of snow fell here. Snow began falling between 4 and 5 o'clock Sunday morning and continued steadily for 26 hours with the exception of one or two breathing spells.

The snow was unusually light, but owing to the absence of heavy winds there was little drifting, except in some localities where drifts of two or more feet were reported.

42 Alarms In 2 Months; 25 For Chimneys: Gettysburg fire company has had the busiest January and February in many years, according to a report of James B. Aumen, fire chief.

The local fire company responded to 42 alarms during the first two months of this year. During the same period of 1933 only 21 alarms were reported here and during the first two months of 1932 only 11 alarms were answered by the local fire volunteers.

Of the 42 alarms turned in here during January and February, ten were from the rural section and they included two large barns with an estimated damage of more than $18,000; three chimney blazes and five grass fires. Thirty-two alarms were sounded in the borough. Of these, 22 were chimney fires, five grass fires and five from various other causes.

POISE

It is an inspiring sight to note the thoughts and manners of a person of poise, as though that one well managed himself and gave out the knowledge, though never boasting about it. Great characters have nearly always been people of poise. They keep themselves under a sort of classic control.

There is no denying the fact that a person with all his faculties alive and, in full dignity, is a person worth listening to, and knowing, for this poise can become one's dominant trait — something to be admired, no matter who that person may be. When difficulties arise, or some dire emergency, it is the one of poise who stands apart and masters the situation.

It is but a short time ago that the birth of Abraham Lincoln was celebrated. Well can we all gain something of Lincoln's quiet and immortal poise as he gave of all that he was to preserve freedom and impartial understanding in the world. Visitors to Cincinnati should not miss seeing the magnificent bronze of Lincoln that stands in Lyle Park there. It is a silent tribute to the poise and grandeur of one of the greatest men of the world. The statue is by that genius George Grey Barnard.

There are times of dignity and poise in an endless number of creatures of the wild, as well as among the large variety or specimens of our most beloved pet — the dog. I am fascinated by the great poise of a dog as you look into a pair of honest eyes, the like of which are to be found in few other animals, wild or domestic.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Discovering People"

Just Folks

TIME AND STYLE

I've loved fair Nicolette and Rae,
Louise and Nellie, Jane and Sue;
Big sleeves have come and gone away
Since first I started in to woo.
And once their hips were all the style,
But I have seen them disappear;
Oh, girls, excuse me if I smile,
Where does your waistline start this year?

I've noticed you in glad array,
In skirts that stopped above the shoe,
And they were loose but yesterday,
But now they tightly cling to you.
You ran to curves for quite a while,
Today you show straight lines severe;
Enlighten now the rank and file;
Where does your waistline start this year?

Time swiftly glides upon his way,
Scattering the mignonette and rue,
Working great changes day by day,
But miracles he works with you.
And, hand in hand with Madame Style,
Her travels on his way, I fear;
This puzzle, common man must rile:

L'Envoi

Oh, Lady Slim! I pause the while,
Pray give me now the proper steer,
I want to know what is in style,
Where does your waistline start this year?

MUCK MAGAZINES
By Ann Pinchot

"Look what I found in Jenny's room—" a friend told me, holding up a picture magazine that was on a level with obscene French postcards.

Ann Pinchot

"It makes me sick to think she's even seen anything like it! When I questioned her, she said these magazines were passed around in class. In the sixth grade, mind you!"

"What can we do?" another mother demanded at a PTA meeting. "How can we stop this corruption of our children?"

Our town of Stamford, Connecticut, is like a lot of other industrial communities. Our children are no different from most. However, we began to have an epidemic of teen trouble. And it seemed to coincide with the increase of muck magazines on newsstands near schools.

A Big Business

So the mothers of our town talked to the teachers and ministers. They discovered that the sale of muck magazines was big business, well organized and deeply entrenched. To smoke them out of our town would require careful, concerted action.

It was then that Joe Kinsella, our police chief, stepped in.

Joe, an orphan at three, was raised by an uncle who taught him values and respect for the law. "In Proverbs it says . . . 'the law is light' and that's what I go by," Joe states. He also believes the law has its ethical and moral basis in the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount.

First, Joe made a survey of the situation. "You want me to censor every magazine?" one retailer demanded, pointing to the overloaded racks. "I wouldn't have time for anything else."

A Poor Excuse

"That's a poor excuse," oe said. "You know the obscene magazines — they're the onew that sell best."

It wasn't the chief's strategy, however, to try and fix blame So Joe Kinsella would ask retailers: "Can you live with yourself, knowing your livelihood is made on the basis of an obscene sheet? Have you the guts to say, 'I'll handle only the decent magazines?' "

He was in one candy store when a trio of schoolboys came in. The older boys were trying to track down a new risque sheet. The kid had just trailed along. Both admitted owning a lot of really salacious magazines.

After the boys left, the retailer said, "Okay, Chief, I'll cooperate with you — if the guy across the street does, too."

100 On The List

With the retailers, the chief was confident he could work on a friendly, neighborly basis. To get to the heart of the problem, however, meant going after distributors. Selecting an officer from the police youth bureau, he asked the man to look over the magazines and bring on a list for discussion. Kinsella was startled to discover over a hundred magazines on the list.

"It was not my intention to set myself up as a censor," he says, "that's out of my line. But it's simple to recognize good from bad. If a picture or cartoon is obscene, you don't want a kid exposed to it. It distorts his thinking."

Once Chief Kinsella had decided on a master list, he sent this letter to each distributor:

"Enclosed is a list of objectionable or obscene magazines which you are requested to remove permanently from sale by local output. I know that in this list there are some which are acceptable as second class mail, but I request the list be followed as given. If there is some particular publication which you would like to discuss on an individual basis, I will be glad to talk it over with you. I would like this to become effective immediately upon receipt of this communication."

Most Complied

Most distributors promised to comply. A few balked, questioning his authority. However, Chief Kinsella pointed out that his job was to keep Stamford free of obscene matter, and unless it worked out in a lawful, orderly way, he would be forced to use drastic means.

A Connecticut statute calls for imprisonment of not more than two years, or a fine of $1,000 or both on conviction of buying, selling, advertising, or showing "any book, pamphlet, paper or other thing containing obscene, indecent, or impure language."

"If they give us the run-around," he said, "we'll tackle the distributor's truck when it hits the community. It is possible for us to arrest the driver and bring him into court as a carrier of obscene matter."

New Interests

Since the drive started on July 21, 1957, members of the youth bureau have helped Kinsella by checking newsstands regularly. And on the theory that when you take something away from kids, you've got to have a better substitute, a group of civic-minded women have founded the Arts for Youth Group which stresses all kinds of creative interests.

That filth was removed from Stamford newsstands is a tribute to the citizens and officials who cooperated in the effort and whose continued vigilance will keep muck magazines from returning. It is a tribute, too, to what one man, armed with respect for God and the law, can do.

"GET TOUGH" POLICY FOR BAD DRIVERS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence today prepared for an all-out offensive to keep speeders and chronic traffic violators off Pennsylvania highways.

The governor put his "get tough-no fix" traffic program in high gear Tuesday by naming a five-member bipartisan committee to study the Commonwealth's vehicle code and recommend changes.

He directed the group to report its findings to him "as soon as possible."

Suspension On First Offense

Then Lawrence unveiled a "rough draft" of the program he has promised will "do something about this carnage on our highways."

Foremost among the proposals was a plan to suspend the licenses of speeders on the first offense.

In some cases now, a motorist may receive a warning instead of a suspension for his first speeding violation.

Lawrence said he hoped to gain support from both Republicans and Democrats for his proposals when they are prepared in final form.

The program will probably be patterned after one introduced in Connecticut by Gov. Abraham Ribicoff. The latter's efforts to enforce traffic laws have been praised highly by Lawrence.

Names to the study committee were Sens. William J. Lane (D-Washington) and Thomas A. Ehrgood (R-Lebanon); Reps. H. J. Maxwell (D-Westmoreland) and Maurice H. Goldstein (R-Allegheny) and Roy Schafer, legislative secretary to the governor.

Lawrence told the group the main features of his present rough draft would:

Make it mandatory that any person who exceeds the speed limit or illegally passes a school bus lose his driving rights for 15 days for a first offense. If the driver committed the same violation within the next three years he would have his license picked up for 60 days. A third offense of that type within five years would bring a one-year suspension.

Periodic Re-examination

If a driver committed the same offense within 10 years of the initial violation, Lawrence said the proposed new law would require that he lose his license permanently.

The governor said his package would also:

Establish a new commercial operator's license, calling for special examination in the vehicle to be operated. The operator would have to pass a physical and mental examination every three years.

Call for periodic re-examination by state police of all non-commercial drivers every five years.

4-YEAR BAN ON POLITICS IS REMOVED

HARRISBURG (AP) — A four-year ban against political activity by employes of the Public Welfare Department was at an end today.

Secretary Ruth Grigg Horting said the 17,000 noncivil service workers in her department may run for political office if it does not interfere with their duties.

Her predecessor, Harry Shapiro, forbade department personnel from any sort of political activity. In one instance, he fired Barney Wentz, Shenandoah, as superintendent of Ashland State Hospital for serving as borough GOP chairman.

May Be Candidates

"Noncivil service employes who wish to run for public office," said Mrs. Horting Tuesday, "may do so without jeopardizing their positions with the state, as long as such action does not interfere with the performance of their duties."

Mrs. Horting has charge of about 23,000 employes but 6,000 of them already are covered by civil service.

For example, the 2,600 workers in the Public Assistance Division are barred by the federal Hatch Act from political activity. Their salaries are paid in part from federal funds.

No Second Class Citizens

The Public Welfare secretary said she issued the new instructions on the basis of recent statements from Gov. Lawrence.

Lawrence recently told newsmen that he did not consider any state employe to be what he termed a "second-class citizen." He used the term when asked if Public Welfare Department workers would be allowed to participate actively in politics.

Mrs. Horting also said her employes need not receive further endorsement from Democratic county chairmen to stay on the job.

Debbie Won't OK Divorce In Nevada

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Debbie Reynolds has told Eddie Fisher she won't consent to a Nevada divorce, because of their children.

"I feel it would be embarrassing to my children to one day find out their father had two wives at the same time," the actress said Tuesday.

Fisher is believed to be seeking a Nevada divorce—which can be obtained in six weeks — presumably so he can wed Elizabeth Taylor. Miss Reynolds' California divorce of Feb. 19 will become final in a year.

Seek Cause Of 200 Babes' Deaths

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coroner J. Robert Teabeaut says he is trying to pinpoint an unknown malady that has caused scores of unexplained deaths among Negro infants.

The Commercial Appeal Tuesday quoted an unnamed official at City Hospital as estimating that 200 infants between the ages of 3 months and 18 months had died of the disease in 12 months.

Nearly all were brought to the hospital after they became ill.

Teabeaut said the deaths have been listed as caused by an overwhelming infection.

Girl, 11, Offers Savings Of $64 To Pay Big U.S. Debt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Kathy Hewitt, 11, grew concerned when she heard about the rising national debt.

In a letter to President Eisenhower, Kathy offered her life savings of $61 and added: "You don't have to pay it back."

The fifth grader had been saving for a horse. But she told Eisenhower the horse didn't matter if the country was going bankrupt.

"Maybe the kids of the country could help out," she said. "Most kids would send you their savings."

President Is Grateful

The President was grateful, the White House said in a letter Kathy received Tuesday. But Wilton B. Persons, presidential assistant, said Eisenhower wants her to keep her money and buy that horse.

Grownups, the letter said, should worry about the national debt.

"The President wants me to explain to you," Persons said, "that young people do their part by being good citizens."

Feeling a little better about the economy, Kathy put the money back into the bank.

"But I still believe," she said, "that our country is more important than luxury."

TO PLAN FOR DPI PROBE

HARRISBURG (AP)—A special five - member Senate committee will meet early next week to lay the groundwork for a broad investigation of the State Public Instruction Department.

"We have planned for a meeting next week to organize and make plans," said Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland). "I have already begun to collect information for the investigation."

It was Wade who touched off the probe two weeks ago when he introduced a resolution, with two other Republicans, criticizing Supt. Charles H. Boehm for his administration of the department.

The Senate adopted the resolution Tuesday, 47-3, after expanding its proposed investigation of Boehm to include the entire department.

Named to the five-member committee with Wade were Sens. Henry J. Propert (R-Montgomery), Thomas Ehrgood (R-Lebanon), Harry Seyler (D-York) and Jo Hays (D-Centre).

Nice Outing But No Fishing Trip

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—It was the first fishing trip of the year Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin.

They got up early, drove to a lake, rented a boat, loaded it with fishing poles, minnow bucket, sandwiches and coffee, found a nice isolated spot and happily watched the hungry fish leaping around them. Then they discovered they had left their fishhooks at home.

Castro To Speak In Washington

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba will address newspaper editors in Washington next month.

Review Proposal On Unwed Mothers

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Public Health and Welfare Committee reviewed a proposal today to make it possible for welfare agencies to transfer children of unwed mothers to foster homes.

Local relief boards would be allowed to withhold relief payments for such children under new legislation. After a five-day appeal period to the State Public Welfare Department, the state could file a juvenile court petition.

In turn, the court would be authorized to take a child from his unwed mother and place him either with acceptable relatives, a foster home or a regional children's center.

The measure would also authorize the relief agencies to cut off aid for dependent children if it finds the aid has not been used to give the youngsters proper food, clothing and shelter.

Four Killed In Airplane Crash

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A single-engine plane went into a spin and carried four persons to their deaths Tuesday.

The occupants were Ben E. Rudisill, 42, president and treasurer of the Carlton Yarn Mills at Cherryville; his wife, 37; Jack H. Scott, 35, general sales manager of the three Carlton mills; and Mrs. F. D. Quinn Jr., wife of the general manager of the Dora Yarn Mill at Cherryville.

Rudisill, who frequently flew on business trips, was a member of the board of directors of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute. He was a past president of the Combed Yarn Spinners Assn.

LOU COSTELLO DIES TUESDAY; HEART ATTACK

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death called the final cue for chubby comedian Lou Costello while, by coincidence, Bud Abbott watched a TV movie of the team's famed "Who's on First?" routine.

"Tell me, why was I watching that picture at that particular time? I never watch it. After all, I've seen it a thousand times."

Abbott, who had seen little of his old sidekick since their split-up in 1957, cried Tuesday as he told how he received the news of Costello's death at 53.

Clowned Through Tragedy

A heart attack — his second within a week — took Costello's life only minutes after he had sent his wife home from the hospital with a wisecrack to cook dinner for the couple's youngest child.

He turned to a nurse and said he wanted to be rolled over on his side.

"I think I'll be more comfortable," were his final words.

Thus ended the comedy career of a modern day Pagliacci who clowned through a personal life filled with illness and tragedy.

Six Major Illnesses

In the decade from 1943 to 1953, Costello suffered six serious illnesses—four of them rheumatic fever attacks — and the tragic drowning of his only son. Infant Lou Costello Jr. wandered into the family swimming pool in 1943.

Costello, who was born in Paterson, N. J., was a burlesque comic when he teamed up with Abbott in 1930. Abbott was drafted from the cashier's office when Costello's straight man failed to show up. The team clicked from the start.

String Of Hits

Once they hit their stride in Hollywood they turned out a string of box office hits that put them among the top 10 money makers in the movies for most of the decade from 1941 to 1951.

Their films, including "Buck Privates," "In the Navy," "Mexican Hayride," "Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein," and "Hold That Ghost," helped keep Universal - International Studio afloat during one movie depression.

Court Defends Reporter's Stand

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—A trial judge Tuesday reaffirmed a reporter's right under California law to refuse to disclose the source of a story published in a newspaper.

Fred Sorri, Monterey, Peninsula Herald Reporter, invoked this section of the California civil code in refusing to answer a question at a perjury trial. Superior Court Judge Anthony Brazil called a 15-minute recess and studied the code before upholding Sorri.

Biglerville Knocked Out Of District 3 Playoffs By Camp Hill High 56-40

Biglerville High got off to a miserable start in the first period and trailed the entire way as it bowed to Camp Hill 56-40 Tuesday evening on the Carlisle High floor in a District 3, Class B playoff game played before 800 fans.

The Canners managed only four points against the Lions and were on the short end of a 15-4 count at the close of the first quarter. Biglervile failed to score until after three minutes of the first period on fouls by Jack Frantz and Jim Kuhn after Camp Hill had taken a 4-0 lead on goals by Joe Dintaman and Craiglow.

Canners Spurt

Camp Hill, Lower Susquehanna Section 2 champs, rolled up a 25-8 lead midway in the second period before Biglerville spurted on three straight goals by Kuhn, Frantz and Hartzel, plus a pair of free tosses by Kuhn. After Glodek netted two free tosses for the Lions, Frantz and Hartzel swished jump tosses for Biglerville who trailed 27-20 at half time.

George Meals rammed through 12 of his team's 14 points in the third stanza as Camp Hill raced away to a 41-28 lead. Bob Nyce, Frantz and Kuhn, the latter getting two goals, accounted for Biglerville's points.

The teams matched scoring fairly evenly in the last frame as the Lions maintained their comfortable lead.

Rebounding Factor

A key factor in the game was Camp Hill's superior rebounding, gathering in 33 to 18 for the Canners. The Lions connected on 37 per cent of their shots from the field while Biglerville managed 29.6.

Kuhn topped the Biglerville scorers with 18 points and H. Hartzel added 10. Dintaman, Meals and Hoke led Camp Hill.

At the foul line Biglerville netted but eight of 23 tries as compared to 16 of 25 for the winners.

Arrangements are being made for Biglerville, Adams Division champ, to meet Scotland, Franklin Division titlist, for the championship of the Adams-Franklin League, probably early next week.

NINO VALDES MEETS POWELL THIS EVENING

Valdes is favored to beat the ex-San Francisco 49ers pro football player and snap his five fight winning streak.

But at least four boxing figures openly give Powell a good chance. One, trainer Lou Gross, flatly predicts Powell will take Valdes. Siding with Gross were Charley Goldman, who trained Rocky Marciano to the heavyweight championship; Joe Netro, co-manager of Carmen Basilio, and Miami Beach's Angelo Pastrano, corner man for Basilio.

Valdes' manager, Bobby Gleason, says the fight is considered a championship match. "If Nino loses, we're ex-champions."

If Valdes loses, he also will be an ex-top contender for Floyd Patterson's heavyweight crown.

"Patterson is a commission-made champion," Gleason said. "How did he get the title anyway? In 1956 he defeated Jimmy Walls, Alvin Williams, Hurricane Jackson and then was awarded the title by beating Archie Moore.

"Since then he defended his so-called title by beating Jackson again, Pete Rademacher and Roy Harris. You won't find Valdes' name on his record."

Powell's upset hopes ride on his power, demonstrated in 14 knockouts in 24 fights and his style.

The fight will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 p.m. (EST).

TRACK RULES GOES TO IC4A

NEW YORK (AP) — The case of the reversed decision will go before the highest court in the IC4A, the executive committee, probably within a week, it was indicated today.

The case developed last Saturday night when Manhattan won the IC4A track and field championship with 21 points to 20 17-36 for second-place Penn State.

Manhattan got its key point when a judge reversed his original ruling in which he had placed the Jaspers' Henry White in fourth place in the 60-yard high hurdles behind New York University's Mike Herman. A couple of hours later, the same judge decided that White had beaten Herman and Manhattan collected one more point — the difference, as it turned out.

Demanded Review

Penn State's coach, Chick Werner and his athletic director, Ernie McCoy, on Monday, demanded a "review" of the facts by the IC4A games committee. This committee looked into the matter decided it was out of its jurisdiction.

So Tuesday, McCoy issued an official protest, so IC4A Commissioner Asa Bushnell is going to call a meeting of the executive committee as soon as he can round up all the members

Bullets Finish Season Tonight At Lancaster

Tonight the Gettysburg College varsity basketball squad brings its season to an end when it clashes with Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster.

The Bullets (13-12) defeated the Diplomats (11-6) here 87-70 but expect their old rivals to be much tougher on their home court.

Completing their careers for Gettysburg will be the following seniors: Frank Grzelecki, Del Warfel, Walt McGowan, Walt Melnik and Jack Hathaway.

At 6:45 the freshman teams will clash. Coach Howard Shoemaker's squad, 16-3 and with a 12-game winning streak, won here last month 108-67. After tonight's scrap the frosh will meet Hill School at Pottstown Saturday to end their season.

HOWE IS GIVEN $10,000 GIFTS

DETROIT (AP)—It was Gordie Howe night and the Detroit Red Wing great received $10,000 worth of gifts. But Harry Lumley, an old teammate and friend, wasn't giving any gifts on the ice.

Instead, the Boston Bruins' emergency goalie was busy robbing Howe in Tuesday night's 2-2 stalemate.

The most flagrant act of larceny came in the second period with Detroit enjoying a 2-1 lead. Howe got a breakaway with teammate Warren Godfrey in the penalty box. He skated in on Lumley and fired a low 20-footer.

The veteran goalie, filling in for the ailing Don Simmons, came out and took the puck on his right pad. Moments later, he foiled Norm Ullman and Red Kelly on another break. Those two saves might turn into the most important made against Detroit all season.

The tie left the Wings within five points of the fourth-place New York Rangers in National Hockey League standings. A victory would have put them iesbndhnoftoutpri both New York and Boston. The Bruins now have undisputed control of third place.

BILL NORMAN IS CAUTIOUS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—"People are trying to put words into my mouth, about the second place chances of my ball club," said Manager Bill Norman.

Norman's Detroit Tigers once more have been picked by the odds makers as the second best team in the American League.

"Some people are trying—in a cute way—to get me to say great things about this team," Norman said. "I ain't going to get foot-in-mouth disease just because a bunch of so-called experts say we're second best to the Yankees."

Norman will say only that he is optimistic about the Tigers' first division chances.

The Tigers were picked during spring training last year to end second in the American League pennant race but finished fifth

Mules Schedule Nine Grid Games

ALLENTOWN — The Muhlenberg football team will play a nine-game schedule this fall, it was announced today by 'Berg athletic director, Ray Whispell.

The schedule: Sept. 26, Scranton, away; Oct. 3, Lafayette, home; 10, Temple, away; 17, Lebanon Valley, home; 24, Gettysburg, home; 31, Hofstra, away; Nov. 7, Albright, home; 14, Franklin & Marshall, away; 21, Moravian home.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The business recession seems to have hit the illegal whisky industry. The state control board notes that only 910 stills were destroyed in the last fiscal year compared with 958 the year before and the production units were smaller. Liquor seized also dropped 27 per cent in volume.

SPAHN SAYS HE WILL WIN 20 AGAIN IN '59

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Warren Spahn says he is going to win 20 games again this year. And when he says it you can bet that he will.

The more you talk with the lean lefthander from Milwaukee, the more you realize why the guy with the big beltmose and the big bent curve is the greatest pitcher in the National League, perhaps in both leagues. No one has a more intelligent approach to his trade.

"The biggest asset a pitcher can have is confidence," said Spahnie today. "When I'm out there on the mound, I make up my mind I'm the best pitcher in the league. And that I'm as good, if not better, than any hitter that comes up to face me. A pitcher has got to be a little arrogant out there. He's got to believe in himself. He's got to think, 'I can get this guy out anytime.'"

In 14 seasons with the Braves, Spahn has won 246 games. In nine of those he's won 20 or more games. But he's nearing 38 and there are those who say he won't win 20 any more. Only Cy Young, Ed Plank and Grover Alexander won 20 or more after 36.

"There's no reason why I shouldn't win 20 this season," said Spahn. "What the difference between this year and last year? One year? I don't feel old. I'm in good physical condition. My arm and legs feel fine.

"I've got the advantage of being with a good club. Also I've got the best catcher in baseball in Del Crandall.

"The old man (Manager Fred Haney) knows what I can do and he goes along with me a little bit longer. That helps a lot."

EX-CHAMPION STRUCK BY CAR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former world lightweight boxing champion Jimmy Carter was struck and seriously injured Tuesday night by a hit-run motorist, police reported.

Attendants at Central Receiving Hospital said the 35-year-old ex-champion was in a semi-conscious state and unable to give any details of the accident.

He was discovered by neighbors a block from his home. Investigators said evidence indicated he was struck by a driver who then drove off in a heavy fog.

Carter won the lightweight crown May 25, 1951 by stopping Ike Williams in 14 rounds at Madison Suare Garden. Lauro Salas took it away from Carter by decision in May, 1952, only to lose it back to Jimmy in October of that year — also by decision.

Carter then reigned as lightweight king until Paddy DeMarco defeated him in 15 rounds at New York City March 5, 1954.

BAR GROUP BACKS COURT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Bar Assn. has rejected several American Bar Assn. resolutions which implied criticism of the U. S. Supreme Court.

By a 288-133 vote after a vigorous debate Tuesday, the lawyers approved a resolution presented by the association's Civil Rights Committee.

The resolution stated that the local bar group "affirms its faith in the Supreme Court in its traditional role as interpreter of the Constitution and as a protector of our cherished freedom and of the rights of the individual against invasion of his constitutional rights and privileges."

The ABA House of Delegates, at its meeting in Chicago last week, supported a resolution which noted that certain high court decisions pertaining to Communist activity and internal security "have been severely criticized by responsible authorities." The resolution urged Congress to pass laws to circumvent certain of the court's decisions.

York Assemblyman Is Seated In House

HARRISBURG (AP)—Rep. John R. Galley (D—York) was seated as a House member Tuesday and cleared on charges of irregularities in his election last fall.

The action was recommended by the House Committee on Elections which reported that charges against Galley had been dropped by persons who challenged his election. Galley was seated conditionally in January.

The House still must act on the challenged election of Rep. Louis Silverman (D — Phila). Silverman's seat was questioned on the grounds he did not reside in the district he was elected to represent.

9 NCAA BERTHS TO BE FILLED IN SIX DAYS

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The NCAA basketball tournament, strictly a cliffhanger special with nine berths to fill in the next six days, can see its vacancies whittled to seven tonight.

But unless the right combination turns up, it can have two more backyard playoffs and even more suspense on its hands.

The Ivy League and the Yankee Conference come front and center-court with the NCAA hope of Ivies' Dartmouth and Princeton and Yankees' Connecticut and Maine on the line.

Share Ivy Lead

Dartmouth and Princeton share the Ivy lead with 12-1 records with one game remaining — Dartmouth at home against Brown and Princeton on the road at Penn, both tonight. If both win, the tie will be resolved in a playoff on Yale's neutral court Saturday night.

Connecticut (7-2) can nail its 10th undisputed Yankee title in 11 years with a victory over Rhode Island tonight. Failing, the UConns drop back into a first place tie with idle Maine (7-3)—and another playoff.

The NCAA already has a triple first place tie to settle in the Border Conference, with Arizona State U., New Mexico State and Texas Western involved. Of the other remaining tournament berths, competition is so close that playoffs may be needed in four more circuits before the 22-team field is set for next Tuesday's full-scale opening.

Two Certainties

Of the nine, the only certainties are one at-large berth from the eastern section (Boston Univ. may get that if it beats Providence Thursday), and the winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament on Saturday.

There's still a chance for ties and playoffs to settle berths from the Pacific Coast, Skyline, Mid-American, and Missouri Valley Conference races now led by California, Utah, Miami (Ohio), and Cincinnati, respectively.

Among the major schools, it was generally warm-up night Tuesday night for three teams headed for tournament play. Texas Christian's Southwest Conference champs closed out league play with an 81-63 romp over Baylor, but St. Mary's West Coast A.C. titleholders lost to Santa Clara 67-66. It was St. Mary's first conference defeat and also ended the Gaels 13-game winning streak. Providence, an NIT team, made it 18-4 for the season with a 79-44 whipping of Siena.

SMU Second

Southern Methodist took second place in the Southwest, downing Texas A&M 70-66 and Texas Tech, behind the 20-point scoring of Gerry Myers, nailed third, 80-69 over Arkansas. Texas salvaged something from a woeful season, beating Rice 63-54 and ending a 13-game losing string.

Xavier of Ohio, the defending NIT champion that went sour, snapped a seven-game losing streak by topping Miami of Ohio 82-78. Balanced scoring five players hit double figures, led Iowa State to a 67-62 Big 8 victory over Kansas, and Rutgers snapped Lafayette's eight-game winning streak, 77-72.

NAIA Playoffs To Open Tonight

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Indiana State Teachers College tonight opens defense of its Dist. 30 (Pennsylvania) title in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball playoffs here.

The Indians, who posted a 15-4 record despite being short-handed, meet Mansfield Teachers (14-4) in the first game of a doubleheader.

Geneva (12-11) and Westminster (16-7) meet in the second game.

Westminster is granted an edge in the tournament because of its record against generally stronger opponents because it has the home court advantage.

The winners of the opening games will meet Thursday night for the right to represent the state in the NAIA playoffs at Kansas City, Mo., starting March 16.

Prague Gripped By Ice Hockey Fever

PRAGUE (AP) — Ice hockey fever is gripping Czechoslovakia which plays host to the world championships beginning Thursday.

The preliminary round will be played in three provincial towns through March 7 while the final round will be held here March 9-15.

Western reporters are stopped in the streets by complete strangers and asked for tickets for the Winter Stadium here. It holds 15,000 with admission sought by several hundred thousand.

Favorite with experts and fans is Canada's Belleville McFarlands who will defend the title won last year by the Canadian Whitbys, who scored a 4-2 victory over Russia in the finals.

Other top favorites are Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Russia in that order.

MIKKELSEN IS 7TH MAN TO HIT 10,000

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vern Mikkelsen of the Minneapolis Lakers finally made it as the seventh player in the history of the National Basketball Assn. to score 10,000 points, but the New York Knickerbockers today still needed to clinch second place in the Eastern Division struggle with the Syracuse Nationals.

In his tenth season with the Lakers, Mikkelsen scored 11 points Tuesday night at Providence, R.I., as the Boston Celtics rallied to clip Minneapolis, 119-112. Mikkelsen fouled out in the second half after hitting the 10,000 mark on the nose.

Set Team Record

Boston clicked for 13 consecutive points in the third period to draw away from the Lakers. The Celtics set a new team record of 50 victories in a season. Tommy Heinsohn got 30 points for Boston and Elgin Baylor scored 24 for Minneapolis.

After a nip and tuck duel for three periods, with Syracuse taking an 88-86 advantage, the Nats poured it on in the final stanza to win 127-120.

At St. Louis, the Hawks rang up their 15th straight win at Kiel Auditorium by downing Cincinnati 113-102 after the Royals led at halftime, 50-46.

MIKE GARCIA ON COMEBACK TRAIL IN ARIZ.

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike Garcia has pitched more than 2,000 innings in 11 big league season with the Cleveland Indians. In six of those years he toped 200 innings and in 1954 worked five against the New York Giants in the World Series.

At 35, the big right-hander must cherish many baseball memories, but today the thought of two innings pitched in a spring training intrasquad game undoubtedly overshadow his many great performances.

The game was Tuesday at Tucson, Ariz., and Garcia worked two scoreless innings. There was a time when such a March chore would have been routine for the "Big Bear" who along with Bob Feller, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon formed baseball's top pitching staff in the early 50s. But last season the once-powerful Garcia was forced out of baseball with a slipped disc. He appeared in only six 1958 games for the Indians, winning one and losing none before he was released on May 29.

Started Comeback

The Indians signed him again this year and Tuesday he started the comeback, giving up only two singles.

Opposing him was a young lefthander of 25, Herb Score, who has had two years of fame and two years of hard luck in his four years with the Indians.

Score came along in 1955 and strung together 16-10 and 20-9 seasons while Garcia was posting his only two losing years with the Tribe.

But in 1957 Score was cut down by a line drive. For months it was doubtful if he would ever pitch again as doctors worked to restore the sight in his right eye.

MVP's Ailing

He came back for the 1958 season, only to be hit by arm trouble. His record for those two seasons was a combined 4-4.

He, too, pitched two scoreless innings, retiring six of seven batters and hitting one. Al Cicotte, a Cleveland newcomer who has seen service with New York and Washington, was hit on the left knee by a batted ball after replacing Score. X-rays proved negative.

The two most valuable players in the majors, Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox and Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs reported ailments. Banks, he tNational League MVP, has infected tonsils, and Jensen, his AL counterpart, a severe stiff neck.

BUDS FAIL TO SNARE TITLE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Budweiser, rated as the top tenpin unit in the country by most of the experts, failed again Tuesday to snag an American Bowling Congress championship.

Dick Weber, who helped bolster the Buds to a second place 3185 Monday night in the team event, collaborated with Ray Bluth for 1306 and a fourth place tie Tuesday in the doubles. The young pair opened with 420, faltered to 399, then jammed through a 487 finale, the highest doubles game of the 18-day - old tournament. Bluth scored 671 while Weber rolled 635.

Two Chicago brothers, Bob and Glenn Gersch, lead the two-man category with 1316.

Other members of the Buds made dents in the all-events standings. Bill Lillard's 622-553-666—1941 tied for fourth place while Weber's 1930 was worth six place and Tom Hennessey's 1905 took tenth.

* Ed Lubanski's record-seting 2116 tally gives the Detroiter a strong hold on the all-events lead.

Biglerville High got off to a miserable start in the first period and trailed the entire way as it bowed to Camp Hill 56-40 Tuesday evening on the Carlisle High floor in a District 3, Class B playoff game played before 800 fans.

The Canners managed only four points against the Lions and were on the short end of a 15-4 count at the close of the first quarter. Biglervile failed to score until after three minutes of the first period on fouls by Jack Frantz and Jim Kuhn after Camp Hill had taken a 4-0 lead on goals by Joe Dintaman and Craiglow.

Canners Spurt

Camp Hill, Lower Susquehanna Section 2 champs, rolled up a 25-8 lead midway in the second period before Biglerville spurted on three straight goals by Kuhn, Frantz and Hartzel, plus a pair of free tosses by Kuhn. After Glodek netted two free tosses for the Lions, Frantz and Hartzel swished jump tosses for Biglerville who trailed 27-20 at half time.

George Meals rammed through 12 of his team's 14 points in the third stanza as Camp Hill raced away to a 41-28 lead. Bob Nyce, Frantz and Kuhn, the latter getting two goals, accounted for Biglerville's points.

The teams matched scoring fairly evenly in the last frame as the Lions maintained their comfortable lead.

Rebounding Factor

A key factor in the game was Camp Hill's superior rebounding, gathering in 33 to 18 for the Canners. The Lions connected on 37 per cent of their shots from the field while Biglerville managed 29.6.

Kuhn topped the Biglerville scorers with 18 points and H. Hartzel added 10. Dintaman, Meals and Hoke led Camp Hill.

At the foul line Biglerville netted but eight of 23 tries as compared to 16 of 25 for the winners.

Arrangements are being made for Biglerville, Adams Division champ, to meet Scotland, Franklin Division titlist, for the championship of the Adams-Franklin League, probably early next week.

TRACK RULES GOES TO IC4A

NEW YORK (AP) — The case of the reversed decision will go before the highest court in the IC4A, the executive committee, probably within a week, it was indicated today.

The case developed last Saturday night when Manhattan won the IC4A track and field championship with 21 points to 20 17-36 for second-place Penn State.

Manhattan got its key point when a judge reversed his original ruling in which he had placed the Jaspers' Henry White in fourth place in the 60-yard high hurdles behind New York University's Mike Herman. A couple of hours later, the same judge decided that White had beaten Herman and Manhattan collected one more point — the difference, as it turned out.

Demanded Review

Penn State's coach, Chick Werner and his athletic director, Ernie McCoy, on Monday, demanded a "review" of the facts by the IC4A games committee. This committee looked into the matter decided it was out of its jurisdiction.

So Tuesday, McCoy issued an official protest, so IC4A Commissioner Asa Bushnell is going to call a meeting of the executive committee as soon as he can round up all the members.

NINO VALDES MEETS POWELL THIS EVENING

Valdes is favored to beat the ex-San Francisco 49ers pro football player and snap his five fight winning streak.

But at least four boxing figures openly give Powell a good chance. One, trainer Lou Gross, flatly predicts Powell will take Valdes. Siding with Gross were Charley Goldman, who trained Rocky Marciano to the heavyweight championship; Joe Netro, co-manager of Carmen Basilio, and Miami Beach's Angelo Pastrano, corner man for Basilio.

Valdes' manager, Bobby Gleason, says the fight is considered a championship match. "If Nino loses, we're ex-champions."

If Valdes loses, he also will be an ex-top contender for Floyd Patterson's heavyweight crown.

"Patterson is a commission-made champion," Gleason said. "How did he get the title anyway? In 1956 he defeated Jimmy Walls, Alvin Williams, Hurricane Jackson and then was awarded the title by beating Archie Moore.

"Since then he defended his so-called title by beating Jackson again, Pete Rademacher and Roy Harris. You won't find Valdes' name on his record."

The fight will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 p.m. (EST).

Bullets Finish Season Tonight At Lancaster

Tonight the Gettysburg College varsity basketball squad brings its season to an end when it clashes with Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster.

The Bullets (13-12) defeated the Diplomats (11-6) here 87-70 but expect their old rivals to be much tougher on their home court.

Completing their careers for Gettysburg will be the following seniors: Frank Grzelecki, Del Warfel, Walt McGowan, Walt Melnik and Jack Hathaway.

At 6:45 the freshman teams will clash. Coach Howard Shoemaker's squad, 16-3 and with a 12-game winning streak, won here last month 108-67. After tonight's scrap the frosh will meet Hill School at Pottstown Saturday to end their season.

HOWE IS GIVEN $10,000 GIFTS

DETROIT (AP)—It was Gordie Howe night and the Detroit Red Wing great received $10,000 worth of gifts. But Harry Lumley, an old teammate and friend, wasn't giving any gifts on the ice.

Instead, the Boston Bruins' emergency goalie was busy robbing Howe in Tuesday night's 2-2 stalemate.

The most flagrant act of larceny came in the second period with Detroit enjoying a 2-1 lead. Howe got a breakaway with teammate Warren Godfrey in the penalty box. He skated in on Lumley and fired a low 20-footer.

The veteran goalie, filling in for the ailing Don Simmons, came out and took the puck on his right pad. Moments later, he foiled Norm Ullman and Red Kelly on another break. Those two saves might turn into the most important made against Detroit all season.

The tie left the Wings within five points of the fourth-place New York Rangers in National Hockey League standings. A victory would have put them iesbndhnoftoutpri both New York and Boston. The Bruins now have undisputed control of third place.

Bucyk, another Detroit castoff, got the tying tally early in the third stanza.

BILL NORMAN IS CAUTIOUS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—"People are trying to put words into my mouth, about the second place chances of my ball club," said Manager Bill Norman.

Norman's Detroit Tigers once more have been picked by the odds makers as the second best team in the American League.

"Some people are trying—in a cute way—to get me to say great things about this team," Norman said. "I ain't going to get foot-in-mouth disease just because a bunch of so-called experts say we're second best to the Yankees."

Norman will say only that he is optimistic about the Tigers' first division chances.

Mules Schedule Nine Grid Games

The schedule: Sept. 26, Scranton, away; Oct. 3, Lafayette, home; 10, Temple, away; 17, Lebanon Valley, home; 24, Gettysburg, home; 31, Hofstra, away; Nov. ", Albright, home; 14, Franklin & Marshall, away; 21, Moravian, home.

RICH ND, Va. (AP) — The business recession seems to have hit the i al whisky industry. The state c ol board notes that only 910 still were destroyed in the last fiscal year compared with 958 the year before and the production units were smaller. Liquor seized also dropped 27 per cent in volume.

SPAHN SAYS HE WILL WIN 20 AGAIN IN '59

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Warren Spahn says he is going to win 20 games again this year. And when he says it you can bet that he will.

The more you talk with the lean lefthander from Milwaukee, the more you realize why the guy with the big bentmose and the big bent curve is the greatest pitcher in the National League, perhaps in both leagues. No one has a more intelligent approach to his trade.

"The biggest asset a pitcher can have is confidence," said Spahnie today. "When I'm out there on the mound, I make up my mind I'm the best pitcher in the league. And that I'm as good, if not better, than any hitter that comes up to face me. A pitcher has got to be a little arrogant out there. He's got to believe in himself. He's got to think, 'I can get this guy out anytime.'"

In 14 seasons with the Braves, Spahn has won 246 games. In nine of those he's won 20 or more games. But he's nearing 38 and there are those who say he won't win 20 any more. Only Cy Young, Ed Plank and Grover Alexander won 20 or more after 38.

"There's no reason why I shouldn't win 20 this season," said Spahn. "What the difference between this year and last year? One year? I don't feel old. I'm in good physical condition. My arm and legs feel fine.

"I've got the advantage of being with a good club. Also I've got the best catcher in baseball in Del Crandall.

"The old man (Manager Fred Haney) knows what I can do and he goes along with me a little bit longer. That helps a lot."

EX-CHAMPION STRUCK BY CAR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former world lightweight boxing champion Jimmy Carter was struck and seriously injured Tuesday night by a hit-run motorist, police reported.

Attendants at Central Receiving Hospital said the 35-year-old exchampion was in a semi-conscious state and unable to give any details of the accident.

He was discovered by neighbors a block from his home. Investigators said evidence indicated he was struck by a driver who then drove off in a heavy fog.

Carter won the lightweight crown May 25, 1951 by stopping Ike Williams in 14 rounds at Madison Suare Garden. Lauro Salas took it away from Carter by decision in May, 1952, only to lose it back to Jimmy in October of that year — also by decision.

Carter then reigned as lightweight king until Paddy DeMarco defeated him in 15 rounds at New York City March 5, 1954.

BAR GROUP BACKS COURT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Bar Assn. has rejected several American Bar Assn. resolutions which implied criticism of the U. S. Supreme Court.

By a 288-133 vote after a vigorous debate Tuesday, the lawyers approved a resolution presented by the association's Civil Rights Committee.

The resolution stated that the local bar group "affirms its faith in the Supreme Court in its traditional role as interpreter of the Constitution and as a protector of our cherished freedom and of the rights of the individual against invasion of his constitutioal rights and privileges."

The ABA House of Delegates, at its meeting in Chicago last week, supported a resolution which noted that certain high court decisions pertaining to Communist activitiy and internal security "have been severely criticized by responsible authorities." The resolution urged Congress to pass laws to circumvent certain of the court's decisions.

York Assemblyman Is Seated In House

HARRISBURG (AP)—Rep. John R. Gailey (D—York) was seated as a House member Tuesday and cleared on charges of irregularities in his election last fall.

The action was recommended by the House Committee on Elections which reported that charges against Gailey had been dropped by persons who challenged his election. Gailey was seated conditionally in January.

The House still must act on the challenged election of Rep. Louis Silverman (D — Phila). Silverman's seat was questioned on the grounds he did not reside in the district he was elected to represent.

9 NCAA BERTHS TO BE FILLED IN SIX DAYS

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The NCAA basketball tournament, strictly a cliffhanger special with nine berths to fill in the next six days, can see its vacancies whittled to seven tonight.

But unless the right combination turns up, it can have two more backyard playoffs and even more suspense on its hands.

The Ivy League and the Yankee Conference come front and center-court with the NCAA hope of Ivies' Dartmouth and Princeton and Yankees' Connecticut and Maine on the line.

Share Ivy Lead

Dartmouth and Princeton share the Ivy lead with 12-1 records with one game remaining — Dartmouth at home against Brown and Princeton on the road at Penn, both tonight. If both win, the tie will be resolved in a playoff on Yale's neutral court Saturday night.

Connecticut (7-2) can nail its 10th undisputed Yankee title in 11 years with a victory over Rhode Island tonight. Failing, the UConns drop back into a first place tie with idle Maine (7-3)—and another playoff.

The NCAA already has a triple first place tie to settle in the Border Conference, with Arizona State U., New Mexico State and Texas Western involved. Of the other remaining tournament berths, competition is so close that playoffs may be needed in four more circuits before the 23-team field is set for next Tuesday's full-scale opening.

Two Certainties

Of the nine, the only certainties are one at-large berth from the eastern section (Boston Univ. may get that if it beats Providence Thursday), and the winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament on Saturday.

There's still a chance for ties and playoffs to settle berths from the Pacific Coast, Skyline, Mid-American, and Missouri Valley Conference races now led by California, Utah, Miami (Ohio), and Cincinnati, respectively.

Among the major schools, it was generally warm-up night Tuesday night for three teams headed for tournament play. Texas Christian's Southwest Conference champs closed out league play with an 81-63 romp over Baylor, but St. Mary's West Coast A.C. titleholders lost to Santa Clara 67-66. It was St. Mary's first conference defeat and also ended the Gaels 13-game winning streak. Providence, an NIT team, made it 18-4 for the season with a 79-44 whipping of Siena.

SMU Second

Southern Methodist took second place in the Southwest, downing Texas A&M 70-66 and Texas Tech, behind the 20-point scoring of Gerry Myers, nailed third, 80-69 over Arkansas. Texas salvaged something from a woeful season, beating Rice 63-54 and ending a 13-game losing string.

Xavier of Ohio, the defending NIT champion that went sour, snapped a seven-game losing streak by topping Miami of Ohio 82-78. Balanced scoring (five players hit double figures) led Iowa State to a 67-62 Big 8 victory over Kansas, and Rutgers snapped Lafayette's eight-game winning streak, 77-72.

Geneva (12-11) and Westminster (16-7) meet in the second game.

Westminster is granted an edge in the tournament because of its record against generally stronger opponents because it has the home court advantage.

MIKKELSEN IS 7TH MAN TO HIT 10,000

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vern Mikkelsen of the Minneapolis Lakers finally made it as the seventh player in the history of the National Basketball Assn. to score 10,000 points, but the New York Knickerbockers today still needed to clinch second place in the Eastern Division struggle with the Syracuse Nationals.

In his tenth season with the Lakers, Mikkelsen scored 11 points Tuesday night at Providence, R.I., as the Boston Celtics rallied to clip Minneapolis, 119-112. Mikkelsen fouled out in the second half after hitting the 10,000 mark on the nose.

Set Team Record

Boston clicked for 13 consecutive points in the third period to draw away from the Lakers. The Celtics set a new team record of 50 victories in a season. Tommy Heinsohn got 30 points for Boston and Elgin Baylor scored 24 for Minneapolis.

After a nip and tuck duel for three periods, with Syracuse taking an 88-86 advantage, the Nats poured it on in the final stanza to win 127-120.

At St. Louis, the Hawks rang up their 15th straight win at Kiel Auditorium by downing Cincinnati 113-102 after the Royals led at halftime, 50-46.

MIKE GARCIA ON COMEBACK TRAIL IN ARIZ.

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike Garcia has pitched more than 2,000 innings in 11 big league season with the Cleveland Indians. In six of those years he toped 200 innings and in 1954 worked five against the New York Giants in the World Series.

At 35, the big right-hander must cherish many baseball memories, but today the thought of two innings pitched in a spring training intrasquad game undoubtedly overshadow his many great performances.

The game was Tuesday at Tucson, Ariz., and Garcia worked two scoreless innings. There was a time when such a March chore would have been routine for the "Big Bear" who along with Bob Feller, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon formed baseball's top pitching staff in the early 50s. But last season the once-powerful Garcia was forced out of baseball with a slipped disc. He appeared in only six 1958 games for the Indians, winning one and losing none before he was released on May 29.

Started Comeback

The Indians signed him again this year and Tuesday he started the comeback, giving up only two singles.

Opposing him was a young lefthander of 25, Herb Score, who has had two years of fame and two years of hard luck in his four years with the Indians.

Score came along in 1955 and strung together 16-10 and 20-9 seasons while Garcia was posting his only two losing years with the Tribe.

But in 1957 Score was cut down by a line drive. For months it was doubtful if he would ever pitch again as doctors worked to restore the sight in his right eye.

MVP's Ailing

He came back for the 1958 season, only to be hit by arm trouble. His record for those two seasons was a combined 4-4.

He, too, pitched two scoreless innings, retiring six of seven batters and hitting one. Al Cicotte, a Cleveland newcomer who has seen service with New York and Washington, was hit on the left knee by a batted ball after replacing Score. X-rays proved negative.

The two most valuable players in the majors, Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox and Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs reported ailments. Banks, he tNational League MVP, has infected tonsils, and Jensen, his AL counterpart, a severe stiff neck.

BUDS FAIL TO SNARE TITLE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Budweiser, rated as the top tenpin unit in the country by most of the experts, failed again Tuesday to snag an American Bowling Congress championship.

Dick Weber, who helped bolster the Buds to a second place 3185 Monday night in the team event, collaborated with Ray Bluth for 1306 and a fourth place tie Tuesday in the doubles. The young pair opened with 420, faltered to 399, then jammed through a 487 finale, the highest doubles game of the 18-day - old tournament. Bluth scored 671 while Weber rolled 635.

Two Chicago brothers, Bob and Glenn Gersch, lead the two-man category with 1316.

Other members of the Buds made dents in the all-events standings. Bill Lillard's 622-653-666—1941 tied for fourth place while Weber's 1930 was worth six place and Tom Hennessey's 1905 took tenth.

Ed Lubanski's record-seting 2116 tally gives the Detroiter a strong hold on the all-events lead.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mercury Drops To 13 Degrees Below Zero: February closed the frigid pages of its weather history Wednesday by sending the mercury down to the lowest mark in 30 years in Gettysburg and vicinity and breaking a 100-year record for protracted cold weather.

Temperatures at dawn Wednesday morning ranged from 13 degrees below zero, the local official reading, to 32 degrees below zero, the lowest unofficial mark recorded.

Dr. Henry Stewart, who records temperatures at his home on Baltimore street for the United States Weather Bureau, said that only once before in the 30 years during which he has kept temperature statistics has his recording thermometer registered less than 13 degrees below zero. That exception was in January 1904 when an all-time record of 20 degrees below zero was reported.

Today's drop in temperature followed less than three weeks after the previous "cold snap" this month on February 9, when Doctor Stewart reported an official minimum of 10 degrees below zero, with unofficial minimums running as low as 24 degrees below zero.

This was announced as representatives of the H. J. Heinz company, Pittsburgh, planned to meet farmers of Fairfield and vicinity at the Hamiltonban Consolidated school in an effort to interest them in raising tomatoes.

3-Inch Snow, Heaviest Of Winter, Blankets County; East In Grip Of Blizzard: Old Man Winter unleashed his heaviest snow barrage of the current season over the week-end and laid a fleecy blanket of white over Gettysburg and Adams county.

Between seven and eight inches of snow fell here. Snow began falling between 4 and 5 o'clock Sunday morning and continued steadily for 26 hours with the exception of one or two breathing spells.

The snow was unusually light, but owing to the absence of heavy winds there was little drifting, except in some localities where drifts of two or more feet were reported.

42 Alarms In 2 Months; 25 For Chimneys: Gettysburg fire company has had the busiest January and February in many years, according to a report of James B. Aumen, fire chief.

The local fire company responded to 42 alarms during the first two months of this year. During the same period of 1933 only 21 alarms were reported here and during the first two months of 1932 only 11 alarms were answered by the local fire volunteers.

Of the 42 alarms turned in here during January and February, ten were from the rural section and they included two large barns with an estimated damage of more than $18,000; three chimney blazes and five grass fires. Thirty-two alarms were sounded in the borough. Of these, 22 were chimney fires, five grass fires and five from various other causes.

POISE

It is an inspiring sight to note the thoughts and manners of a person of poise, as though that one well managed himself and gave out the knowledge, though never boasting about it. Great characters have nearly always been people of poise. They keep themselves under a sort of classic control.

There is no denying the fact that a person with all his faculties alive and, in full dignity, is a person worth listening to, and knowing, for this poise can become one's dominant trait — something to be admired, no matter who that person may be. When difficulties arise, or some dire emergency, it is the one of poise who stands apart and masters the situation.

It is but a short time ago that the birth of Abraham Lincoln was celebrated. Well can we all gain something of Lincoln's quiet and immortal poise as he gave of all that he was to preserve freedom and impartial understanding in the world. Visitors to Cincinnati should not miss seeing the magnificent bronze of Lincoln that stands in Lyle Park there. It is a silent tribute to the poise and grandeur of one of the greatest men of the world. The statue is by that genius George Grey Barnard.

There are times of dignity and poise in an endless number of creatures of the wild, as well as among the large variety or specimens of our most beloved pet — the dog. I am fascinated by the great poise of a dog as you look into a pair of honest eyes, the like of which are to be found in few other animals, wild or domestic.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Discovering People"

TIME AND STYLE

I've loved fair Nicolette and Rae,
Louise and Nellie, Jane and Sue;
Big sleeves have come and gone away
Since first I started in to woo.
And once their hips were all the style,
But I have seen them disappear;
Oh, girls, excuse me if I smile,
Where does your waistline start this year?

I've noticed you in glad array,
In skirts that stopped above the shoe,
And they were loose but yesterday,
But now they tightly cling to you.
You ran to curves for quite a while,
Today you show straight lines severe;
Enlighten now the rank and file;
Where does your waistline start this year?

Time swiftly glides upon his way,
Scattering the mignonette and rue,
Working great changes day by day,
But miracles he works with you.
And, hand in hand with Madame Style,
Her travels on his way, I fear;
This puzzle, common man must rile:

L'Envoi

Oh, Lady Slim! I pause the while,
Pray give me now the proper steer,
I want to know what is in style,
Where does your waistline start this year?

MUCK MAGAZINES
By Ann Pinchot

"Look what I found in Jenny's room—" a friend told me, holding up a picture magazine that was on a level with obscene French postcards.

Ann Pinchot

"It makes me sick to think she's even seen anything like it! When I questioned her, she said these magazines were passed around in class. In the sixth grade, mind you!"

"What can we do?" another mother demanded at a PTA meeting. "How can we stop this corruption of our children?"

Our town of Stamford, Connecticut, is like a lot of other industrial communities. Our children are no different from most. However, we began to have an epidemic of teen trouble. And it seemed to coincide with the increase of muck magazines on newsstands near schools.

A Big Business

So the mothers of our town talked to the teachers and ministers. They discovered that the sale of muck magazines was big business, well organized and deeply entrenched. To smoke them out of our town would require careful, concerted action.

It was then that Joe Kinsella, our police chief, stepped in.

Joe, an orphan at three, was raised by an uncle who taught him values and respect for the law. "In Proverbs it says . . . 'the law is light' and that's what I go by," Joe states. He also believes the law has its ethical and moral basis in the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount.

First, Joe made a survey of the situation. "You want me to censor every magazine?" one retailer demanded, pointing to the overloaded racks. "I wouldn't have time for anything else."

A Poor Excuse

"That's a poor excuse," Joe said. "You know the obscene magazines — they're the onew that sell best."

It wasn't the chief's strategy, however, to try and fix blame. So Joe Kinsella would ask retailers: "Can you live with yourself, knowing your livelihood is made on the basis of an obscene sheet? Have you the guts to say, 'I'll handle only the decent magazines?'"

He was in one candy store when a trio of schoolboys came in. The older boys were trying to track down a new risque sheet. The kid had just trailed along. Both admitted owning a lot of really salacious magazines.

After the boys left, the retailer said, "Okay, Chief, I'll cooperate with you — if the guy across the street does, too."

100 On The List

With the retailers, the chief was confident he could work on a friendly, neighborly basis. To get to the heart of the problem, however, meant going after distributors. Selecting an officer from the police youth bureau, he asked the man to look over the magazines and bring on a list for discussion. Kinsella was startled to discover over a hundred magazines on the list.

"It was not my intention to set myself up as a censor," he says. "That's out of my line. But it's simple to recognize good from bad. If a picture or cartoon is obscene, you don't want a kid exposed to it. It distorts his thinking."

Once Chief Kinsella had decided on a master list, he sent this letter to each distributor:

"Enclosed is a list of objectionable or obscene magazines which you are requested to remove permanently from sale by local output. I know that in this list there are some which are acceptable as second class mail, but I request the list be followed as given. If there is some particular publication which you would like to discuss on an individual basis, I will be glad to talk it over with you. I would like this to become effective immediately upon receipt of this communication."

Most Complied

Most distributors promised to comply. A few balked, questioning his authority. However, Chief Kinsella pointed out that his job was to keep Stamford free of obscene matter, and unless it worked out in a lawful, orderly way, he would be forced to use drastic means.

A Connecticut statute calls for imprisonment of not more than two years, or a fine of $1,000 or both on conviction of buying, selling, advertising, or showing "any book, pamphlet, paper or other thing containing obscene, indecent, or impure language."

"If they give us the run-around," he said, "we'll tackle the distributor's truck when it hits the community. It is possible for us to arrest the driver and bring him into court as a carrier of obscene matter."

New Interests

Since the drive started on July 21, 1957, members of the youth bureau have helped Kinsella by checking newsstands regularly. And on the theory that when you take something away from kids, you've got to have a better substitute, a group of civic-minded women have founded the Arts for Youth Group which stresses all kinds of creative interests.

That filth was removed from Stamford newsstands is a tribute to the citizens and officials who cooperated in the effort and whose continued vigilance will keep muck magazines from returning. It is a tribute, too, to what one man, armed with respect for God and the law, can do.

"GET TOUGH" POLICY FOR BAD DRIVERS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence today prepared for an all-out offensive to keep speeders and chronic traffic violators off Pennsylvania highways.

The governor put his "get tough-no fix" traffic program in high gear Tuesday by naming a five-member bipartisan committee to study the Commonwealth's vehicle code and recommend changes.

He directed the group to report its findings to him "as soon as possible."

Suspension On First Offense

Then Lawrence unveiled a "rough draft" of the program he has promised will "do something about this carnage on our highways."

Foremost among the proposals was a plan to suspend the licenses of speeders on the first offense.

In some cases now, a motorist may receive a warning instead of a suspension for his first speeding violation.

Lawrence said he hoped to gain support from both Republicans and Democrats for his proposals when they are prepared in final form.

The program will probably be patterned after one introduced in Connecticut by Gov. Abraham Ribicoff. The latter's efforts to enforce traffic laws have been praised highly by Lawrence.

Names to the study committee were Sens. William J. Lane (D-Washington) and Thomas A. Ehrgood (R-Lebanon); Reps. H. J. Maxwell (D-Westmoreland) and Maurice H. Goldstein (R-Allegheny) and Roy Schafer, legislative secretary to the governor.

Lawrence told the group the main features of his present rough draft would:

Make it mandatory that any person who exceeds the speed limit or illegally passes a school bus lose his driving rights for 15 days for a first offense. If the driver committed the same violation within the next three years he would have his license picked up for 60 days. A third offense of that type within five years would bring a one-year suspension.

Periodic Re-examination

If a driver committed the same offense within 10 years of the initial violation, Lawrence said the proposed new law would require that he lose his license permanently.

The governor said his package would also:

Establish a new commercial operator's license, calling for special examination in the vehicle to be operated. The operator would have to pass a physical and mental examination every three years.

Call for periodic re-examination by state police of all non-commercial drivers every five years.

4-YEAR BAN ON POLITICS IS REMOVED

HARRISBURG (AP) — A four-year ban against political activity by employes of the Public Welfare Department was at an end today.

Secretary Ruth Grigg Horting said the 17,000 noncivil service workers in her department may run for political office if it does not interfere with their duties.

Her predecessor, Harry Shapiro, forbade department personnel from any sort of political activity. In one instance, he fired Barney Wentz, Shenandoah, as superintendent of Ashland State Hospital for serving as borough GOP chairman.

May Be Candidates

"Noncivil service employes who wish to run for public office," said Mrs. Horting Tuesday, "may do so without jeopardizing their positions with the state, as long as such action does not interfere with the performance of their duties."

Mrs. Horting has charge of about 23,000 employes but 6,000 of them already are covered by civil service.

For example, the 2,600 workers in the Public Assistance Division are barred by the federal Hatch Act from political activity. Their salaries are paid in part from federal funds.

No Second Class Citizens

Lawrence recently told newsmen that he did not consider any state employe to be what he termed a "second-class citizen." He used the term when asked if Public Welfare Department workers would be allowed to participate actively in politics.

Mrs. Horting also said her employes need not receive further endorsement from Democratic county chairmen to stay on the job.

Debbie Won't OK Divorce In Nevada

"I feel it would be embarrassing to my children to one day find out their father had two wives at the same time," the actress said Tuesday.

Fisher is believed to be seeking a Nevada divorce—which can be obtained in six weeks — presumably so he can wed Elizabeth Taylor. Miss Reynolds' California divorce of Feb. 19 will become final in a year.

Seek Cause Of 200 Babes' Deaths

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coroner J. Robert Teabeaut says he is trying to pinpoint an unknown malady that has caused scores of unexplained deaths among Negro infants.

The Commercial Appeal Tuesday quoted an unnamed official at City Hospital as estimating that 200 infants between the ages of 3 months and 18 months had died of the disease in 12 months.

Nearly all were brought to the hospital after they became ill.

Teabeaut said the deaths have been listed as caused by an overwhelming infection.

Girl, 11, Offers Savings Of $64 To Pay Big U.S. Debt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Kathy Hewitt, 11, grew concerned when she heard about the rising national debt.

In a letter to President Eisenhower, Kathy offered her life savings of $61 and added: "You don't have to pay it back."

The fifth grader had been saving for a horse. But she told Eisenhower the horse didn't matter if the country was going bankrupt.

President Is Grateful

The President was grateful, the White House said in a letter Kathy received Tuesday. But Wilton B. Persons, presidential assistant, said Eisenhower wants her to keep her money and buy that horse.

Grownups, the letter said, should worry about the national debt.

"The President wants me to explain to you," Persons said, "that young people do their part by being good citizens."

Feeling a little better about the economy, Kathy put the money back into the bank.

"But I still believe," she said, "that our country is more important than luxury."

TO PLAN FOR DPI PROBE

HARRISBURG (AP)—A special five - member Senate committee will meet early next week to lay the groundwork for a broad investigation of the State Public Instruction Department.

"We have planned for a meeting next week to organize and make plans," said Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland). "I have already begun to collect information for the investigation."

It was Wade who touched off the probe two weeks ago when he introduced a resolution, with two other Republicans, criticizing Supt. Charles H. Boehm for his administration of the department.

The Senate adopted the resolution Tuesday, 47-3, after expanding its proposed investigation of Boehm to include the entire department.

Nice Outing But No Fishing Trip

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—It was the first fishing trip of the year Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin.

They got up early, drove to a lake, rented a boat, loaded it with fishing poles, minnow bucket, sandwiches and coffee, found a nice isolated spot and happily watched the hungry fish leaping around them. Then they discovered they had left their fishhooks at home.

Castro To Speak In Washington

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba will address newspaper editors in Washington next month.

George W. Healy Jr., president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said Tuesday night the revolutionary leader had cabled him acceptance of the ASNE's invitation to speak at its annual meeting in Washington on April 17.

The bill, approved in the House early last month, was passed unanimously Tuesday.

No More Bathing Nude In Hopedale

HOPEDALE, Mass. (AP)—After studying the matter for two years, a committee recommended Tuesday the repeal of a town bylaw which tacitly permits bathing in the nude after dark.

The law reads:

"That no person in a state of nudity shall bathe in any of the waters of this town between the hours of sunrise and sunset or in places exposed to public view, or near any dwelling."

Review Proposal On Unwed Mothers

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Public Health and Welfare Committee reviewed a proposal today to make it possible for welfare agencies to transfer children of unwed mothers to foster homes.

Local relief boards would be allowed to withhold relief payments for such children under new legislation. After a five-day appeal period to the State Public Welfare Department, the state could file a juvenile court petition.

In turn, the court would be authorized to take a child from his unwed mother and place him either with acceptable relatives, a foster home or a regional children's center.

The measure would also authorize the relief agencies to cut off aid for dependent children if it finds the aid has not been used to give the youngsters proper food, clothing and shelter.

Four Killed In Airplane Crash

The occupants were Ben E. Rudisill, 42, president and treasurer of the Carlton Yarn Mills at Cherryville; his wife, 37; Jack H. Scott, 35, general sales manager of the three Carlton mills; and Mrs. F. D. Quinn Jr., wife of the general manager of the Dora Yarn Mill at Cherryville.

Rudisill, who frequently flew on business trips, was a member of the board of directors of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute. He was a past president of the Combed Yarn Spinners Assn.

LOU COSTELLO DIES TUESDAY; HEART ATTACK

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death called the final cue for chubby comedian Lou Costello while, by coincidence, Bud Abbott watched a TV movie of the team's famed "Who's on First?" routine.

"Tell me, why was I watching that picture at that particular time? I never watch it. After all, I've seen it a thousand times."

Abbott, who had seen little of his old sidekick since their split-up in 1957, cried Tuesday as he told how he received the news of Costello's death at 53.

Clowned Through Tragedy

A heart attack — his second within a week — took Costello's life only minutes after he had sent his wife home from the hospital with a wisecrack to cook dinner for the couple's youngest child.

He turned to a nurse and said he wanted to be rolled over on his side.

"I think I'll be more comfortable," were his final words.

Six Major Illnesses

In the decade from 1943 to 1953, Costello suffered six serious illnesses—four of them rheumatic fever attacks — and the tragic drowning of his only son. Infant Lou Costello Jr. wandered into the family swimming pool in 1943.

Costello, who was born in Paterson, N. J., was a burlesque comic when he teamed up with Abbott in 1930. Abbott was drafted from the cashier's office when Costello's straight man failed to show up. The team clicked from the start.

String Of Hits

Once they hit their stride in Hollywood they turned out a string of box office hits that put them among the top 10 money makers in the movies for most of the decade from 1941 to 1951.

Their films, including "Buck Privates," "In the Navy," "Mexican Hayride," "Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein," and "Hold That Ghost," helped keep Universal - International Studio afloat during one movie depression.

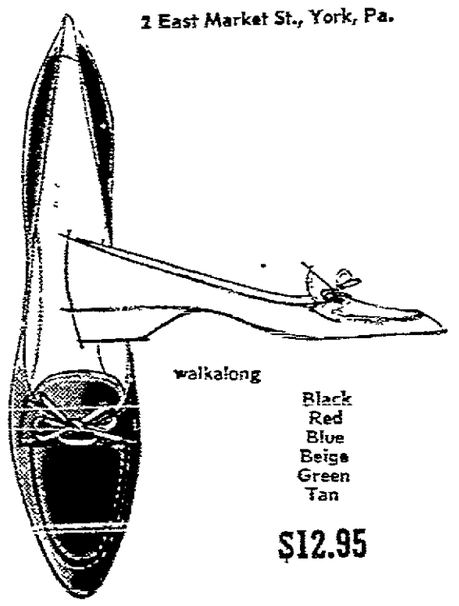

Court Defends Reporter's Stand

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—A trial judge Tuesday reaffirmed a reporter's right under California law to refuse to disclose the source of a story published in a newspaper.

Fred Sorri, Monterey, Peninsula Herald Reporter, invoked this section of the California civil code in refusing to answer a question at a perjury trial. Superior Court Judge Anthony Brazil called a 15-minute recess and studied the code before upholding Sorri.

The Day Christ Died

The author's detailed, hour-by-hour account of the most dramatic day in history started with 6 p.m. — the beginning of the Hebrew day — with Jesus and Disciples coming into Jerusalem with the throngs gathering for the Passover observance. Peter and John had gone on ahead to prepare the feast of roast lamb, salad, fruit and wine to spread upon the U-shaped table around which the Disciples sat with Jesus for the Last Supper.

Jesus taught them a lesson in humility by washing their feet, and in the instruction that followed, He dismayed and sorrowed the Twelve by emphasizing His awareness that His betrayal was at hand. With a gesture and words not comprehended by them all, He singled out Judas as the betrayer and sent him from the room with the words, "That which you must do, do quickly." Judas hastened to the house of Caiaphas to inform the high priest where Jesus might be found. Then Caiaphas went to see the Roman procurator, Pilate, to insure the arrest and punishment of the disturbing Messiah whose teachings threatened the continuance in power of Caiaphas and the maintenance of the Temple in its current status — spiritually and economically. It was Caiaphas' design for Jesus to be tried as a false prophet by the Sanhedrin, the supreme court of the Jews. Those convicted by the Sanhedrin received severe punishment. There were no prisons, no asylums. The usual sentence was death. Each sentence was passed on, before execution, by the Roman procurator. The procurator usually affirmed it without question.

Now continue Mr. Bishop's vivid narration in the sixth hour:

April 6, A.D. 30

THE final cup of wine had been drunk and the feast was over. They stood and sang the hallel (Praise Ye) and, as the solemn notes died in the big room, so, too, the followers of Jesus had bridged the distance between what would become the old and the new testaments. Until this night, there had been a testament. From now on, there could be an old testament and a new testament and the second would be a continuance of the revelations of God the Father through Jesus, His Son.

Jesus rose from His couch and the Apostles stood also, but with lowered heads, looking at the floor or looking up only briefly at their Messiah. Their sadness was as tangible as the cool night air.

Jesus felt the gloom and He wanted to lift them from it. "Do not let your heart be troubled," He said gently, almost smiling. "You have faith in God: have faith in Me also. In My Father's house are many rooms. I should have told you if it were not so. The fact is, I am now about to go for the very purpose of preparing a place for you." Some lifted their heads, and there was hope in their eyes. "And when I am gone and have prepared a place for you, I will come back and take you home with Me. I want you to be where I shall be."

Obverse and reverse sides of a silver shekel, of a design in circulation in Jerusalem in the century of the Crucifixion. Regarding the money paid Judas for the betrayal, Jim Bishop explains in The Day Christ Died, "St. Matthew specifies 'thirty pieces of silver,' probably meaning thirty Hebrew shekels or the equivalent of 120 Roman denarii."

Joy Solemn, Deep

Now all the heads were up and all were smiling. When He said that He would die, they were in despair. But when He said that He would die and come back for them and bring them "home," their joy was solemn and deep.

"The way to where I am going you know, of course," Jesus continued.

Their triumphant faces suddenly clouded again. They looked at Thomas because often, when they were in a delicate situation with the Lord, he alone knew how to ask the necessary question. Thomas coughed, hesitated and said: "Lord, we do not know where You are going; how do we know the way?"

"I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father," Jesus said, holding out both hands for understanding, "except through Me. Since you know Me, you will also know My Father."

Father and Son Are One

It could hardly have been plainer. He was saying that God the Father and God the Son were one. This, as might be expected, was too much for the minds of the Apostles to embrace all at once.

"Lord," said Philip, stroking his thick beard, "let us see the Father, and we shall be satisfied. Ask Him to appear here, now, however briefly, and all questions will end."

"Philip," Jesus said sternly, "so long a time have I been in your midst, and you do not know Me?" The Messiah punctuated His words with a finger of one hand tapping the palm of the other. "He . . . who . . . sees . . . Me . . . sees . . . the . . . Father." He shook His head, almost in exasperation. "How, then, can you say: 'Let us see the Father?' Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in Me?" He had made it as plain as He could and He was wearied by their lack of comprehension.

"Believe Without Seeing"

Jesus knew that He could make them all believe Him — even Caiaphas and Annas would fall prostrate before Him if He would consent to show His divinity by some tangible thing — but the major point of His teaching was that man must believe without seeing, and, sometimes, without understanding.

But Jesus, Who was love incarnate, never lost patience with His Father's creatures. His eyes pleaded for faith: if they could not understand, then they must have faith. There was so much, so very much, to say to these simple, goodhearted men. His eyes lowered. "If you love Me," He whispered, "you will treasure My commandments."

Jesus was ready to leave. He looked around and made a sign to Peter. It was almost midnight when they left. Jesus led the way down the outer stairs, pausing at the foot to whisper His thanks to the father of the young Disciple Mark. Then they walked out into the night, a little band of men murmuring to each other in brilliant moonlight. They turned south, toward the Valley of Hinnom, but they were still inside the wall and no one could be seen on the streets.

Spirit of Truth

Jesus discoursed as they walked slowly through the southern part of Jerusalem and then down the Long Roman steps to the Fountain Gate.

"And I will ask My Father," He said, "That He will grant you another advocate to be with you for all time to come, the Spirit of Truth. The world is incapable of receiving Him, because it neither sees Him nor knows Him. You will know Him because He will make His permanent stay with you and in you." In the half light He sensed their fears. "I will not leave you orphans; I am coming back to you," He said.

The word "advocate" used by Jesus, in Greek, is parakletos, which means a consoler, or counselor. When He said "another advocate," He implied that He, Jesus, had been a paraclete to the Apostles; now He would send a spiritual one who would remain with the Disciples and with the followers of Jesus for all time. This, then, is the introduction of the Holy Ghost.

"I Am The Father"

"Yet a little while, and the world sees Me no longer; but you will see Me, because I live, and you, too, shall live. On that day you will come to understand that I am in the Father and you are in Me, and I in you. He who accepts My commandments and treasures them, he is the one that loves Me. And he that loves Me will, in turn, be loved by My Father; and I will love him, and will manifest Myself to him."

They were going down the Roman steps, broad enough for almost the whole party to walk abreast, when Jude, ordinarily quiet and self-effacing, stopped the group with a question.

"And what is the reason, Lord, why You intend to manifest Yourself to us and not to the world?" It was good that Jude, generally so silent, had decided to ask a question, because the answer which came at once explained a great deal.

"Treasure My Message"

"Anyone who loves Me will treasure My message, and My Father will love him, and We shall visit him and make our home with him. He who does not treasure My message does not love Me; and, mind you, the message you have heard is not Mine but the Father's, whose ambassador I am."

Anyone . . . He stressed the "anyone" as He spoke.

"I have told you all this while I am still lingering in your midst; but the Advocate, the Holy Spirit whom the Father will send in My name, will teach you everything and refresh your memory of everything I have told you. Peace is My legacy to you: My own peace is My gift to you. My giving to you is not like the world's way of giving."

Lonesome Cry Of Soldiers

Jerusalem was at its quietest. In a few minutes, at midnight, the sentinel watches would change, and the lonesome cry of the soldiers on the ramparts of Antonia would be heard. Soon the great gates of the temple would open and many of the early risers would be there to offer chagigah.

Now the city was still under the high moon, and only in the northeast could sounds be heard. There, leaving the double archway of Antonia, was a detachment of Roman soldiers. Ordinarily, a centurion would command a group such as this, but Caiaphas, in his plea for assistance from the Romans, overstated his case and the man who led this detachment was the tribune himself — the ranking military man in the city.

The tribune understood the legalities of the situation. He was not to meddle in the arrest because blasphemy against Yahweh was not a crime against Rome, and there was no statue under the rule of the empire on which Jesus could be tried. This was a Jewish problem; they were dealing with a provincial troublemaker who, somehow or other, had hurt the prestige and practices of the great temple.

"Executing The Orders"

All the tribune had to do was to assist the temple guards in executing the orders of the high priest. If there was any resistance, the Romans would be fully authorized to beat many Jews to death.

Lanterns were carried before and behind the column of soldiers, and the tribune marched them west along the roads and turned left at the small crossroads gate outside of which was the small hill which the Jews called Golgotha, which is to say, a skull.

They moved south along the hill to the right of the Tyropoeon Valley and on down between the Palace of the Herods and the Palace of the Hasmoneans. The men kept a smart pace, the swinging lanterns causing their bare legs to dance in black on the pavement. Their orders were to report to the high priest. He would lead them to the culprit.

Never had the Apostles known Jesus to talk so much, and with such finality. They would walk a little way and He would stop and they would cluster around, looking almost sinister in the shadlws cast by the moon. He would talk forcefully for a moment or two, and when He had made His point, they would open up the semi-circle for Him to lead the way again. It was after midnight when they passed the little hilly village of Siloam. You will not want to miss the continuation of Mr. Bishop's vivid narration here in Thursday's edition.

How To Finance Record U.S. Debt Without Giving Boost To Inflation Tough Problem

Editor's note: One of the government's biggest problems is financing a record national debt of 266 billion dollars without fostering inflation. This, the second of four articles on debt management, discusses this fiscal dilemma.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Treasury is promoting inflation of the money supply just as surely as if it were printing paper greenbacks.

The Treasury doesn't like this, of course, because it could lead to inflation of the whole economy. At the moment, however, it sees no clear way out.

Investor fears of rising interest rates and inflation have made it difficult — if not impossible — for Uncle Sam to borrow needed billions on a long term basis, or even for an intermediate period like five years. As a result, he has had to concentrate on getting short term loans which are much more inflationary.

Create Paradox

Many of these loans, which come due in three months to three years, are kissing cousins of greenbacks and they create a paradox.

Uncle Sam has trouble getting less-inflationary long term loans, partly because of inflation fears. So he borrows on a short term basis and thus reinforces the very fears which are compounding his problem.

For Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, this is a bitter irony. Anderson is so vocal a foe of inflation that Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) recently accused him of being obsessed on the subject.

Helping Inflation

The Treasury chief is acutely aware that he, through his department, is helping to increase the inflation potential he decries.

Anderson has made a point of acquainting a number of recent visitors with the relationship between bank loans and inflation.

The secretary begins by asking the visitor's opinion on "monetization of the debt." He has found that a surprising number of government and business leaders are puzzled by the term. In such cases, he launches into a simple explanation.

What's Involved

Assume the Treasury borrows a million dollars from a Washington bank. What is involved?

The Treasury gives the bank a piece of paper — a government security—which says Uncle Sam has borrowed a million dollars and will repay in so many years at a fixed rate of interest. Because the worth of this piece of paper is vouched for by Uncle Sam, it assumes real value and is listed among the bank's assets.

On the liability side of the bank's ledger is written an offsetting entry. The bank sets up a new deposit of one million dollars against which the government can write checks to pay its bills.

Created A Million

Anderson asks, where did the bank get this million dollars? Did it take the cash out of someone else's account and give it to the Treasury?

The answer is that it got the money from no one. It created one million dollars worth of credit on the strength of the Treasury's I.O.U.

At this point the visitor is apt to comment, "That's just like printing greenbacks, and I'm against that."

Hard To Control

Carrying the illustration further, as soon as the government writes checks against that deposit, money which didn't exist before goes into circulation.

This is inflation of the money supply.

The picture could change for the worse this year, however, if the Treasury continues to do most of its borrowing on a short term basis. The "greenbacks" could get out of hand.

M'MAHON WILL JOIN FORCES OF LAW, ORDER

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Horace McMahon, a character actor who can play anything, enjoys the game of cops and robbers.

Sometimes a cop, sometimes a thug, he joins the forces of law and order in "Naked City" (ABC-TV, Tuesdays 9:30 p.m., EST) March 17 as Lt. Mike Parker of the New York City Police Department.

This comes about because Lt. Muldoon is bumped off, rubbed out—in short, eliminated — in a show appropriately called "The Bumper." A hired killer rams his car into Muldoon, knocking him into an oil truck which bursts into flames. This is one way to remove a character from a television series.

Less Paternal

Muldoon was eliminated because John McIntire, who has played the role since the series' inception, wanted to withdraw and spend full time working his Montana ranch.

McMahon, taking over as a new character, Parker, expects to be a less paternal type of policeman than McIntire was. "I expect I'll act a little tougher—at least tough on the outside," says McMahon.

McMahon's extensive experience in the theater, television and movies has not been confined to cops and robbers. He has played Army officers, sergeants, sailors, expugs, a ship's doctor—and a major league baseball manager in "Damn Yankees."

But for one six-year stretch in Hollywood he played nothing but heavies, killers and stooges. Then he switched from lawbreaker to lawman in "Detective Story" on Broadway.

Explains Difference

What, from an actor's viewpoint, is the difference between playing a lawbreaker and a lawman?

"The difference is mainly in furtiveness," says McMahon. "The hoodlum is trying to be obscure. The peace officer, who is entitled to carry the gun, is not trying to be obscure. He is frankly what he is.

"In television or the movies or theater the hoodlum and the peace officer can look physically the same. Both have to convey a certain toughness in order to be convincing. But the peace officer is more relaxed because his conscience is clear while the hoodlum is a character in flight."

The Day Christ Died

The author's detailed, hour-by-hour account of the most dramatic day in history started with 6 p.m. — the beginning of the Hebrew day — with Jesus and Disciples coming into Jerusalem with the throngs gathering for the Passover observance. Peter and John had gone on ahead to prepare the feast of roast lamb, salad, fruit and wine to spread upon the U-shaped table around which the Disciples sat with Jesus for the Last Supper.

Jesus taught them a lesson in humility by washing their feet, and in the instruction that followed, He dismayed and sorrowed the Twelve by emphasizing His awareness that His betrayal was at hand. With a gesture and words not comprehended by them all, He singled out Judas as the betrayer and sent him from the room with the words, "That which you must do, do quickly." Judas hastened to the house of Caiaphas to inform the high priest where Jesus might be found. Then Caiaphas went to see the Roman procurator, Pilate, to insure the arrest and punishment of the disturbing Messiah whose teachings threatened the continuance in power of Caiaphas and the maintenance of the Temple in its current status — spiritually and economically. It was Caiaphas' design for Jesus to be tried as a false prophet by the Sanhedrin, the supreme court of the Jews. Those convicted by the Sanhedrin received severe punishment. There were no prisons, no asylums. The usual sentence was death. Each sentence was passed on, before execution, by the Roman procurator. The procurator usually affirmed it without question.

Now continue Mr. Bishop's vivid narration in the sixth hour:

April 6, A.D. 30

THE final cup of wine had been drunk and the feast was over. They stood and sang the hallel (Praise Ye) and, as the solemn notes died in the big room, so, too, the followers of Jesus had bridged the distance between what would become the old and the new testaments. Until this night, there had been a testament. From now on, there could be an old testament and a new testament and the second would be a continuance of the revelations of God the Father through Jesus, His Son.

Jesus rose from His couch and the Apostles stood also, but with lowered heads, looking at the floor or looking up only briefly at their Messiah. Their sadness was as tangible as the cool night air.

Jesus felt the gloom and He wanted to lift them from it. "Do not let your heart be troubled," He said gently, almost smiling. "You have faith in God: have faith in Me also. In My Father's house are many rooms. I should have told you if it were not so. The fact is, I am now about to go for the very purpose of preparing a place for you." Some lifted their heads, and there was hope in their eyes. "And when I am gone and have prepared a place for you, I will come back and take you home with Me. I want you to be where I shall be."

Obverse and reverse sides of a silver shekel, of a design in circulation in Jerusalem in the century of the Crucifixion. Regarding the money paid Judas for the betrayal, Jim Bishop explains in The Day Christ Died, "St. Matthew specifies 'thirty pieces of silver,' probably meaning thirty Hebrew shekels or the equivalent of 120 Roman denarii."

Joy Solemn, Deep

Now all the heads were up and all were smiling. When He said that He would die, they were in despair. But when He said that He would die and come back for them and bring them "home," their joy was solemn and deep.

"The way to where I am going you know, of course," Jesus continued.

Their triumphant faces suddenly clouded again. They looked at Thomas because often, when they were in a delicate situation with the Lord, he alone knew how to ask the necessary question. Thomas coughed, hesitated and said: "Lord, we do not know where You are going; how do we know the way?"

"I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father," Jesus said, holding out both hands for understanding, "except through Me. Since you know Me, you will also know My Father."

Father and Son Are One

It could hardly have been plainer. He was saying that God the Father and God the Son were one. This, as might be expected, was too much for the minds of the Apostles to embrace all at once.

"Lord," said Philip, stroking his thick beard, "let us see the Father, and we shall be satisfied. Ask Him to appear here, now, however briefly, and all questions will end."

"Philip," Jesus said sternly, "so long a time have I been in your midst, and you do not know Me?" The Messiah punctuated His words with a finger of one hand tapping the palm of the other. "He . . . who . . . sees . . . Me . . . sees . . . the . . . Father." He shook His head, almost in exasperation. "How, then, can you say: 'Let us see the Father?' Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in Me?" He had made it as plain as He could and He was wearied by their lack of comprehension.

"Believe Without Seeing"

Jesus knew that He could make them all believe Him — even Caiaphas and Annas would fall prostrate before Him if He would consent to show His divinity by some tangible thing — but the major point of His teaching was that man must believe without seeing, and, sometimes, without understanding.

But Jesus, Who was love incarnate, never lost patience with His Father's creatures. His eyes pleaded for faith: if they could not understand, then they must have faith. There was so much, so very much, to say to these simple, goodhearted men. His eyes lowered. "If you love Me," He whispered, "you will treasure My commandments."

Jesus was ready to leave. He looked around and made a sign to Peter. It was almost midnight when they left. Jesus led the way down the outer stairs, pausing at the foot to whisper His thanks to the father of the young Disciple Mark. Then they walked out into the night, a little band of men murmuring to each other in brilliant moonlight. They turned south, toward the Valley of Hinnom, but they were still inside the wall and no one could be seen on the streets.

Spirit of Truth

Jesus discoursed as they walked slowly through the southern part of Jerusalem and then down the Long Roman steps to the Fountain Gate.

"And I will ask My Father," He said, "That He will grant you another advocate to be with you for all time to come, the Spirit of Truth. The world is incapable of receiving Him, because it neither sees Him nor knows Him. You will know Him because He will make His permanent stay with you and in you." In the half light He sensed their fears. "I will not leave you orphans; I am coming back to you," He said.

The word "advocate" used by Jesus, in Greek, is parakletos, which means a consoler, or counselor. When He said "another advocate," He implied that He, Jesus, had been a paraclete to the Apostles; now He would send a spiritual one who would remain with the Disciples and with the followers of Jesus for all time. This, then, is the introduction of the Holy Ghost.

"I Am The Father"

"Yet a little while, and the world sees Me no longer: but you will see Me, because I live, and you, too, shall live. On that day you will come to understand that I am in the Father and you are in Me, and I in you. He who accepts My commandments and treasures them, he is the one that loves Me. And he that loves Me will, in turn, be loved by My Father; and I will love him, and will manifest Myself to him."

They were going down the Roman steps, broad enough for almost the whole party to walk abreast, when Jude, ordinarily quiet and self-effacing, stopped the group with a question.

"And what is the reason, Lord, why You intend to manifest Yourself to us and not to the world?" It was good that Jude, generally so silent, had decided to ask a question, because the answer which came at once explained a great deal.

"Treasure My Message"

"Anyone who loves Me will treasure My message, and My Father will love him, and We shall visit him and make our home with him. He who does not treasure My message does not love Me; and, mind you, the message you have heard is not Mine but the Father's, whose ambassador I am."

Anyone . . . He stressed the "anyone" as He spoke.

"I have told you all this while I am still lingering in your midst: but the Advocate, the Holy Spirit whom the Father will send in My name, will teach you everything and refresh your memory of everything I have told you. Peace is My legacy to you: My own peace is My gift to you. My giving to you is not like the world's way of giving."

Lonesome Cry Of Soldiers

Jerusalem was at its quietest. In a few minutes, at midnight, the sentinel watches would change, and the lonesome cry of the soldiers on the ramparts of Antonia would be heard. Soon the great gates of the temple would open and many of the early risers would be there to offer chagigah.

Now the city was still under the high moon, and only in the northeast could sounds be heard. There, leaving the double archway of Antonia, was a detachment of Roman soldiers. Ordinarily, a centurion would command a group such as this, but Caiaphas, in his plea for assistance from the Romans, overstated his case and the man who led this detachment was the tribune himself — the ranking military man in the city.

The tribune understood the legalities of the situation. He was not to meddle in the arrest because blasphemy against Yahweh was not a crime against Rome, and there was no statue under the rule of the empire on which Jesus could be tried. This was a Jewish problem: they were dealing with a provincial troublemaker who, somehow or other, had hurt the prestige and practices of the great temple.

"Executing The Orders"

All the tribune had to do was to assist the temple guards in executing the orders of the high priest. If there was any resistance, the Romans would be fully authorized to beat many Jews to death.

Lanterns were carried before and behind the column of soldiers, and the tribune marched them west along the roads and turned left at the small crossroads gate outside of which was the small hill which the Jews called Golgotha, which is to say, a skull.

They moved south along the hill to the right of the Tyropoeon Valley and on down between the Palace of the Herods and the Palace of the Hasmoneans. The men kept a smart pace, the swinging lanterns causing their bare legs to dance in black on the pavement. Their orders were to report to the high priest. He would lead them to the culprit.

Never had the Apostles known Jesus to talk so much, and with such finality. They would walk a little way and He would stop and they would cluster around, looking almost sinister in the shadiws cast by the moon. He would talk forcefully for a moment or two, and when He had made His point, they would open up the semi-circle for Him to lead the way again. It was after midnight when they passed the little hilly village of Siloam. You will not want to miss the continuation of Mr. Bishop's vivid narration here in Thursday's edition.

SEES NO GOP HELP TO RAISE EXPANDED TAX

HARRISBURG (AP)—Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Republican floor leader, today predicted Democrats would have to go without any GOP help in any effort to pass an expanded sales tax in the House.

He said the 102-member Republican minority would caucus on the question next Monday.

"The caucus probably will do what was done by the Democrats in 1953," he said. "It will tell the majority, 'Pass the tax if you have the votes'."

He referred to solid Democratic opposition to the original 1 per cent sales tax proposed by former Gov. John S. Fine six years ago. The measure barely passed the House, then under Republican control.

Rep. Stephen McCann, Democratic floor leader, said he would push for a full House vote by March 16 on the sales tax measure.

It calls for boosting the rate from 3 to 3½ per cent and extending it to include alcoholic drinks, trade-ins, electric and telephone bills, utility maintenance equipment and tools and repair and service charges.

McCann has his work cut out for him since it takes 106 votes to pass a bill in the House and the Democrats have 108. Three or more Democratic absentees would mean defeat of the bill without Republican help.

Rumblings Of Discontent

And there have been behind-the-scenes rumblings of discontent among House Democrats who traditionally have opposed the sales tax.

The House Ways and Means Committee released the sales tax measure to the floor Tuesday, less than 24 hours after Gov. Lawrence called for its enactment as part of a 400-million-dollar tax package to balance a record-high budget of $1,907,000,000.

Democrat Dissenters

The three dissenting votes were cast by Democrats. The governor and Dr. Boehm have said they would welcome such a probe by a five-member Senate committee.

Negligence claims — The House defeated 120-79 legislation which would have allowed payment of insurance claims to persons involved in accidents even if they were in part responsible.

The vote crossed party lines after a hot debate on the measure backed by the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. The State Supreme Court has ruled that any negligence on the part of a claimant makes him ineligible for damages.

On School Debt

School debt limit — The House Education Committee approved a plan to double the constitutional debt limit for school districts in a move to cut down the higher costs of authority-financed school construction.

Interest rates are lower for bonds issued by the school district itself in comparison to those sold by authorities. But many districts have had to resort to authorities because they have reached their debt ceilings.

Sales tax — The sales tax revisions would become effective under the House measure. It is in line with the governor's request for quick tax action as means of reducing the estimated 177-million-dollar deficit for the two-year fiscal period ending May 31.

Delay To Be Costly

Lawrence estimated the state would lose $367,000 in revenue for every day beyond March 31 the revised sales tax is not law.

The House tax - writing group held up action on 10 other bills in the 400-million-dollar package on the theory that they can be passed by May 31 without a loss in revenue. It includes the cent-a-bottle soft drinks tax.

The committee also gave approval to a cent-a-pack hike in the cigarette tax, now five cents. The added 25 million dollars in revenue would be earmarked to pay for the 150-million-dollar Korean bonus.

PRESSURES HINDER PLCB IN ITS DUTY

By BILL GIBSON

HARRISBURG (AP) — The chairman of the State Liquor Control Board said today that enforcement of Pennsylvania's liquor laws is often hindered by tremendous pressure from outside sources, including politicans.

Patrick E. Kerwin made the statement in calling for legislation that would crack down on violators after the first offense.

He said pressure is often exerted by politicians and the licensees themselves in order to prevent closing of taverns where violations have been uncovered.

Some Use Pressure

"There are some politicians who never approach the board," Kerwin said, "but, unfortunately, there are others who pressure the board for acceptance of compromises."

He did not identify them.

The Liquor Code rovides for fines of $10 a day in lieu of a license suspension for most violoations if the compromise is acceptable to the board.

"I would like to see compromises prohibited by law after the first offense," Kerwin told The Associated Press. He said this would eliminate the practice of people ressuring the board to accept the compromise payments.

Against Crowding

Kerwin made the comment in the wake of Gov. Lawrence's call for strict enforcement and additional laws, if necessary, to clean up skid row areas and eliminate other ills of liquor traffic in the state.

The board chairman said he also favored legislation to allow the board to prevent transfer of licenses into areas already overcrowded and to reduce present concentrations.

The state courts recently ruled that the board lacked authority to prevent license transfers.

CHRONOLOGY OF SPACESHOTS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A chronology of space probes and moonshots:

Aug. 17, 1958 — The U.S. Air Force fired a Thor-Able rocket toward the moon. It blew up at 50,000 feet after 77 seconds of flight. It did not carry a project name.

Oct. 11, 1958 — The Air Force fired Pioneer I, atop another Thor-Able rocket. It was intended to circle the moon and return to earth after viewing the moon's hidden side. It rose to 71,300 miles and fell back to earth. Failure was laid to deviation in course.

Nov. 8, 1958 — The Air Force made its third try, Pioneer II, with the Thor-Able rocket. The third stage failed to fire and the probe reached only 1,000 miles high, falling back to earth in a normal ballistic path 7,500 miles from Cape Canaveral.

Dec. 5, 1958 — The U.S. Army made its first attempt, Pioneer III, with a Juno rocket. This shot was to bypass the moon, or with luck to hit it. The rocket was to achieve escape velocity, 7 miles per second — a speed that would enable it to enter an orbit around the sun. The rocket failed to fire all its fuel, and so failed to reach top speed. It traveled to a height of 66,654 miles and fell back to earth.

Jan. 2, 1959 — The Soviet Union said it fired a 1½ ton satellite into orbit around the sun, passing very close to the moon, perhaps within 4,700 miles. Radio contact was lost with this rocket at 374,000 miles, but it was known that the rocket had achieved escape velocity, the Soviets said. Most American astronomers concede that, supposing the Soviet data correct, Mechta is in orbit around the sun, and will remain so for millions of years.

March 3, 1959 — A Juno II rocket was launched by the Army, carrying Pioneer IV. The goal was to hurl a 13-pound satellite past the moon and into solar orbit.

Some good cooks like to substitute orange juice for part of the milk when they are making waffles; orange rind (grated) goes in the waffle batter, too. Serve with orange sauce and crisp bacon.

Washington Flower Show Opens Friday

The nation's capital will be a mecca this weekend for flower and garden enthusiasts who will be visiting the National Capital Flower and Garden Show which opens Friday in the National Guard Armory, E. Capitol and 20th Sts., Washington.

The show, which continues through Thursday of next week, will be open daily from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. It is sponsored by the Allied Florists of Greater Washington.

The display will feature a colorful display of numerous varieties of flowers, including a sub-tropical display of plants from Florida. An elaborate rock garden will have such features as a waterfall. Specialized flower clubs and a bee club will also have displays.

WASHINGTON (AP) — About one million drivers lose their licenses each year. But, the Commerce Department says, many continue driving by getting licenses from other states. The department has asked Congress to set up a central file on drivers who have their licenses suspended or revoked. In this way, a state easily could check whether an applicant has lost his license in another state.

KHRUSHCHEV AT POINT OF "NO RETURN"

By RONALD THOMSON

MOSCOW (AP)—Western diplomats in Moscow consider that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has reached a point of no return in his German policy.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, these diplomats say, learned on his visit that the Soviet premier is in deadly earnest about carrying out his proclaimed policy to write a separate peace treaty with East Germany and give the East German Communists control of the Allied supply lines to West Berlin.

But Macmillan made it equally clear to Khrushchev that the Western Allies will not budge an inch without "provision for proper alternatives," a British source said.

Tough For Diplomacy

"The immediate task is to avoid a major international crisis in which errors on either side could stumble the world into war," said one Western ambassador.

Another Western envoy said he had advised his government several times that there is a very serious danger of war in the political conflict over Germany's future.

One ambassador felt the Soviet agreement to attend a foreign ministers conference lasting two or three months offered a "bare chance" of postponing the May 27 deadline set by the Soviets for turning over to the East Germans full control of the Berlin supply routes.

One Of Dangers

One of the dangers in the situation, according to informed diplomats, is that both East and West have landed themselves in "prestige position" over Germany.

As far as the U.S.S.R. is concerned, the position on Germany is believed to be a personal policy of Khrushchev.

A ranking Communist diplomat was voted: "the Soviet program on Germany and Berlin is Khrushchev's personal policy to the same extent as his drives to boost corn production and to reshuffle industrial management in this country."

Woman Perishes In Rooming House Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An aged woman perished Tuesday night when she went back to her room to get something before leaving a burning West Philadelphia rooming house.

The body of Miss Clorrine Irvine, 83, was found on the bed of her second floor room. Another resident said Miss Irvine ignored warnings to flee when the fire was discovered. She apparently was trapped in her room by the flames.

Three other residents got out safely and a fourth, Ida Ferguson, 52, was rescued from a window ledge by firemen.

Officials said the fire started near Miss Irvine's room and spread to the third floor of the brick row house. The cause of the blaze was not known and a damage estimate was not made.

Some cooks like to keep a little unsalted butter on hand and use it for greasing cookie and cake pans; the absence of salt makes removing the foods easy and the butter gives good flavor.

WASHINGTON (AP) — About one million drivers lose their licenses each year. But, the Commerce Department says, many continue driving by getting licenses from other states. The department has asked Congress to set up a central file on drivers who have their licenses suspended or revoked. In this way, a state easily could check whether an applicant has lost his license in another state.

KHRUSHCHEV AT POINT OF "NO RETURN"

By RONALD THOMSON

MOSCOW (AP)—Western diplomats in Moscow consider that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has reached a point of no return in his German policy.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, these diplomats say, learned on his visit that the Soviet premier is in deadly earnest about carrying out his proclaimed policy to write a separate peace treaty with East Germany and give the East German Communists control of the Allied supply lines to West Berlin.

But Macmillan made it equally clear to Khrushchev that the Western Allies will not budge an inch without "provision for proper alternatives," a British source said.

Tough For Diplomacy

"The immediate task is to avoid a major international crisis in which errors on either side could stumble the world into war," said one Western ambassador.

Another Western envoy said he had advised his government several times that there is a very serious danger of war in the political conflict over Germany's future.

One ambassador felt the Soviet agreement to attend a foreign ministers conference lasting two or three months offered a "bare chance" of postponing the May 27 deadline set by the Soviets for turning over to the East Germans full control of the Berlin supply routes.

One Of Dangers

One of the dangers in the situation, according to informed diplomats, is that both East and West have landed themselves in "prestige position" over Germany.

As far as the U.S.S.R. is concerned, the position on Germany is believed to be a personal policy of Khrushchev.

A ranking Communist diplomat was uoted: "the Soviet program on Germany and Berlin is Khrushchev's personal policy to the same extent as his drives to boost corn production and to reshuffle industrial management in this country."

Woman Perishes In Rooming House Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An aged woman perished Tuesday night when she went back to her room to get something before leaving a burning West Philadelphia rooming house.

The body of Miss Clorrine Irvine, 83, was found on the bed of her second floor room. Another resident said Miss Irvine ignored warnings to flee when the fire was discovered. She apparently was trapped in her room by the flames.

Three other residents got out safely and a fourth, Ida Ferguson, 52, was rescued from a window ledge by firemen.

Officials said the fire started near Miss Irvine's room and spread to the third floor of the brick row house. The cause of the blaze was not known and a damage estimate was not made.

Some cooks like to keep a little unsalted butter on hand and use it for greasing cookie and cake pans; the absence of salt makes removing the foods easy and the butter gives good flavor.

SEES NO GOP HELP TO RAISE EXPANDED TAX

HARRISBURG (AP)—Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Republican floor leader, today predicted Democrats would have to go without any GOP help in any effort to pass an expanded sales tax in the House.

He said the 102-member Republican minority would caucus on the question next Monday.

"The caucus probably will do what was done by the Democrats in 1953," he said. "It will tell the majority, 'Pass the tax if you have the votes'."

He referred to solid Democratic opposition to the original 1 per cent sales tax proposed by former Gov. John S. Fine six years ago. The measure barely passed the House, then under Republican control.

Rep. Stephen McCann, Democratic floor leader, said he would push for a full House vote by March 16 on the sales tax measure.

It calls for boosting the rate from 3 to 3½ per cent and extending it to include alcoholic drinks, trade-ins, electric and telephone bills, utility maintenance equipment and tools and repair and service charges.

McCann has his work cut out for him since it takes 106 votes to pass a bill in the House and the Democrats have 108. Three or more Democratic absentees would mean defeat of the bill without Republican help.

Rumblings Of Discontent

And there have been behind-the-scenes rumblings of discontent among House Democrats who traditionally have opposed the sales tax.

The House Ways and Means Committee released the sales tax measure to the floor Tuesday, less than 24 hours after Gov. Lawrence called for its enactment as part of a 400-million-dollar tax package to balance a record-high budget of $1,907,000,000.

Other legislative developments:

Democrat Dissenters

The three dissenting votes were cast by Democrats. The governor and Dr. Boehm have said they would welcome such a probe by a five-member Senate committee.

Negligence claims — The House defeated 120-79 legislation which would have allowed payment of insurance claims to persons involved in accidents even if they were in part responsible.

The vote crossed party lines after a hot debate on the measure backed by the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. The State Supreme Court has ruled that any negligence on the part of a claimant makes him ineligible for damages.

On School Debt

School debt limit — The House Education Committee approved a plan to double the constitutional debt limit for school districts in a move to cut down the higher costs of authority-financed school construction.

Interest rates are lower for bonds issued by the school district itself in comparison to those sold by authorities. But many districts have had to resort to authorities because they have reached their debt ceilings.

Sales tax — The sales tax revisions would become effective under the House measure. It is in line with the governor's request for quick tax action as means of reducing the estimated 177-million-dollar deficit for the two-year fiscal period ending May 31.

Delay To Be Costly

Lawrence estimated the state would lose $367,000 in revenue for every day beyond March 31 the revised sales tax is not law.

The House tax - writing group held up action on 10 other bills in the 400-million-dollar package on the theory that they can be passed by May 31 without a loss in revenue. It includes the cent-a-bottle soft drinks tax.

The committee also gave approval to a cent-a-pack hike in the cigarette tax, now five cents. The added 25 million dollars in revenue would be earmarked to pay for the 150-million-dollar Korean bonus.

PRESSURES HINDER PLCB IN ITS DUTY

By BILL GIBSON

HARRISBURG (AP) — The chairman of the State Liquor Control Board said today that enforcement of Pennsylvania's liquor laws is often hindered by tremendous pressure from outside sources, including politicans.

Patrick E. Kerwin made the statement in calling for legislation that would crack down on violators after the first offense.

He said pressure is often exerted by politicians and the licensees themselves in order to prevent closing of taverns where violations have been uncovered.

Some Use Pressure

"There are some politicians who never approach the board," Kerwin said, "but, unfortunately, there are others who pressure the board for acceptance of compromises."

He did not identify them.

The Liquor Code rovides for fines of $10 a day in lieu of a license suspension for most violations if the compromise is acceptable to the board.

"I would like to see compromises prohibited by law after the first offense." Kerwin told The Associated Press. He said this would eliminate the practice of people ressuring the board to accept the compromise payments.

Against Crowding

Kerwin made the comment in the wake of Gov. Lawrence's call for strict enforcement and additional laws, if necessary, to clean up skid row areas and eliminate other ills of liquor traffic in the state.

The board chairman said he also favored legislation to allow the board to prevent transfer of licenses into areas already overcrowded and to reduce present concentrations.

The state courts recently ruled that the board lacked authority to prevent license transfers.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A chronology of space probes and moonshots:

Aug. 17, 1958 — The U.S. Air Force fired a Thor-Able rocket toward the moon. It blew up at 50,000 feet after 77 seconds of flight. It did not carry a project name.

Oct. 11, 1958 — The Air Force fired Pioneer I, atop another Thor-Able rocket. It was intended to circle the moon and return to earth after viewing the moon's hidden side. It rose to 71,300 miles and fell back to earth. Failure was laid to deviation in course.

Nov. 8, 1958 — The Air Force made its third try, Pioneer II, with the Thor-Able rocket. The third stage failed to fire and the probe reached only 1,000 miles high, falling back to earth in a normal ballistic path 7,500 miles from Cape Canaveral.

Dec. 6, 1958 — The U.S. Army made its first attempt, Pioneer III, with a Juno rocket. This shot was to bypass the moon, or with luck to hit it. The rocket was to achieve escape velocity, 7 miles per second — a speed that would enable it to enter an orbit around the sun. The rocket failed to fire all its fuel, and so failed to reach top speed. It traveled to a height of 66,654 miles and fell back to earth.

Jan. 2, 1959 — The Soviet Union said it fired a 1½ ton satellite into orbit around the sun, passing very close to the moon, perhaps within 4,700 miles. Radio contact was lost with this rocket at 374,000 miles, but it was known that the rocket had achieved escape velocity, the Soviets said. Most American astronomers concede that, supposing the Soviet data correct, Mechta is in orbit around the sun, and will remain so for millions of years.

March 3, 1959 — A Juno II rocket was launched by the Army, carrying Pioneer IV. The goal was to hurl a 13-pound satellite past the moon and into solar orbit.

Instrument Tracks Radio Signals 400,000 Miles Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mammoth instrument designed to detect radio signals from as far as 400,000 miles out in space is the key link in an elaborate radio chain that is tracking Pioneer IV, the Army's moon-sun probe.

The big device is a parabolic antenna 85 feet in diameter set up on Southern California's Mojave Desert.

From the time Pioneer IV reached 50,000 miles into space, the California radio telescope — known as the Goldstone Facility —was the probe's only link with earth.

Hope For Orbit

Before that, a network of stations kept tabs on the gold-plated cone the Army hopes will streak past the moon and go into orbit around the sun.

Among these was the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England. The Jodrell telescope picked up Pioneer's signals within 12 minutes after the satellite's post-midnight launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Among other things, Pioneer IV's tiny transmitter is flashing back data on radiation. Its battery-powered transmitter is designed to operate continuously on a frequency of 960.05 megacycles for about 90 hours. By then the probe should be in orbit.

Approximately four minutes after the launching the probe was picked up by a 10-foot diameter antenna at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

Follow For Six Hours

This station had the job of following the 13-pound cone for the next five or six hours, beginning with the moment it shed its carrier rocket and began free flight.

Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said the Mojave Desert telescope would take over after that.

He estimated that instrument would track the probe for 9 to 10 hours until losing it because of the earth's rotation. About 14 hours later, the California station would attempt to pick it up a second time.

"On this second pass," Pickering said, "the probe will come close to the moon, which would be about 38 hours after the launching time."

GRADY BEATS D'ALESANDRO

BALTIMORE (AP) — J. Harold Grady, a young state's attorney in his first election fight, wrecked one of the last old-time political machines Tuesday night by defeating Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in Baltimore's Democratic primary.

The 42-year-old prosecutor carried his running mates for comptroller and City Council president with him to victory as he turned back D'Alesandro's bid for nomination to a fourth straight term.

Grady candidates also were nominated to 7 of 20 City Council seats. Only one seat was held by an anti-D'Alesandro man on the present all-Democratic council.

Complete returns from 572 polling places gave Grady 103,358 votes, D'Alesandro 70,341. Three other candidates totaled 6,520.

In the May 5 general election Grady will oppose Theodore R. McKeldin, the city's mayor from 1943-47 and the only Republican ever to serve two consecutive terms as governor of Maryland.

Returns from all but 11 of the 445 precincts in the west central Missouri district, including part of Kansas City, gave Randall 27,492 to 19,972 votes over Republican William R. McKee Jr., and lumber dealer from suburban Lee's Summit.

The district, normally Democratic, returned Christopher to office last November by nearly 64 per cent of the vote.

In a primary election in Kansas City, all nine Citizens Assn. candidates for City Council were nominated and all but two outdrew their opponents.

Six independent candidates for the council and one for mayor were eliminated in the voting.

Mayor H. Roe Bartle heads the ticket of the Citizens Assn., which has controlled City Hall since it beat the old Pendergast machine in 1940.

ADAMS AMONG 31 COUNTIES HELPED BY PSU

UNIVERSITY PARK — School districts of 31 Central Pennsylvania counties annually look to the Pennsylvania State University's department of industrial education for help in qualifying new personnel and upgrading others in their present teaching positions.

There are 192 persons, some of them from industry, currently seeking such aid in extension courses offered by the department in Altoona, Hershey, Shamokin, Wilkes-Barre and Williamsport.

These courses help teachers gain credits for their Bachelor of Science degrees and to meet requirements for temporary or permanent teaching certificates. They also help persons employed in industry to qualify for teaching positions.

Helped On Programs

Dr. S. Lewis Land, director of vocational education and head of Penn State's department of industrial education, says the program is set up each year according to the wants and needs of the area. The program itself was launched more than 30 years ago.

Among the counties assisted by the program over the years have been Adams, Bedford, Blair, Bradford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Columbia, Cumberland, Dauphin, Elk, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Luzerne, Lycoming, McKean, Mifflin, Montour, Northumberland, Perry, Potter, Snyder, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Wyoming and York.

Members of the department assisted in the organization and establishment of the Wyoming Valley Area Technical School, one of three state-approved technical schools, and helped school districts develop plans for about 50 industrial arts programs in new school buildings throughout Central Pennsylvania.

Hoad combined with former Davis Cup mate Ashley Cooper to down Gonzales and Mal Anderson, another Australia, 8-5 in the doubles.

Brownies Meet

Brownie Scout Troop No. 61 met on Saturday in the engine house, when the girls learned to embroider, under the supervision of Mrs. George Schaefer. The group practiced for the dance to be presented by the Brownies of Littlestown at the annual Juliette Low rally on March 14 at the Gettysburg High School. The group was reminded that members of the troop are invited to attend the worship service at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday in Redeemer's United Church of Christ in observance of National Girl Scout Week; or those wishing may attend the installation service in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Sunday.

Troop No. 56 of Brownies met on Monday after school at the engine house, when the girls learned Scout laws 9 and 10 in charge of Mrs. James H. Spalding, leader. There was practice for the investiture ceremonies on Thursday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the engine house. The members are asked to bring their batons and flutes along to the meeting next Monday to continue practice for the investiture. There was also practice for participation in the program at the annual Juliette Low rally on March 14 in Gettysburg. The girls will wear their uniforms to the rally and also to attend the Sunday morning worship service in Redeemer's United Church of Christ.

Instrument Tracks Radio Signals 400,000 Miles Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mammoth instrument designed to detect radio signals from as far as 400,000 miles out in space is the key link in an elaborate radio chain that is tracking Pioneer IV, the Army's moon-sun probe.

The big device is a parabolic antenna 85 feet in diameter set up on Southern California's Mojave Desert.

From the time Pioneer IV reached 50,000 miles into space, the California radio telescope — known as the Goldstone Facility —was the probe's only link with earth.

Hope For Orbit

Before that, a network of stations kept tabs on the gold-plated cone the Army hopes will streak past the moon and go into orbit around the sun.

Among these was the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England. The Jodrell telescope picked up Pioneer's signals within 12 minutes after the satellite's post-midnight launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Among other things, Pioneer IV's tiny transmitter is flashing back data on radiation. Its battery-powered transmitter is designed to operate continuously on a frequency of 960.05 megacycles for about 90 hours. By then the probe should be in orbit.

Approximately four minutes after the launching the probe was picked up by a 10-foot diameter antenna at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

Follow For Six Hours

This station had the job of following the 13-pound cone for the next five or six hours, beginning with the moment it shed its carrier rocket and began free flight.

Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said the Mojave Desert telescope would take over after that.

He estimated that instrument would track the probe for 9 to 10 hours until losing it because of the earth's rotation. About 14 hours later, the California station would attempt to pick it up a second time.

"On this second pass," Pickering said, "the probe will come close to the moon, which would be about 38 hours after the launching time."

GRADY BEATS D'ALESANDRO

BALTIMORE (AP) — J. Harold Grady, a young state's attorney in his first election fight, wrecked one of the last old-time political machines Tuesday night by defeating Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in Baltimore's Democratic primary.

The 42-year-old prosecutor carried his running mates for comptroller and City Council president with him to victory as he turned back D'Alesandro's bid for nomination to a fourth straight term.

Grady candidates also were nominated to 7 of 20 City Council seats. Only one seat was held by an anti-D'Alesandro man on the present all-Democratic council.

Complete returns from 572 polling places gave Grady 103,358 votes. D'Alesandro 70,341. Three other candidates totaled 6,520

In the May 5 general election Grady will oppose Theodore R. McKeldin, the city's mayor from 1943-47 and the only Republican ever to serve two consecutive terms as governor of Maryland.

Returns from all but 11 of the 445 precincts in the west central Missouri district, including part of Kansas City, gave Randall 27,492 to 19,972 votes over Republican William R. McKee Jr., and lumber dealer from suburban Lee's Summit.

The district, normally Democratic, returned Christopher to office last November by nearly 64 per cent of the vote.

In a primary election in Kansas City, all nine Citizens Assn. candidates for City Council were nominated and all but two outdrew their opponents.

Six independent candidates for the council and one for mayor were eliminated in the voting.

Mayor H. Roe Bartle heads the ticket of the Citizens Assn., which has controlled City Hall since it beat the old Pendergast machine in 1940.

ADAMS AMONG 31 COUNTIES HELPED BY PSU

UNIVERSITY PARK — School districts of 31 Central Pennsylvania counties annually look to the Pennsylvania State University's department of industrial education for help in qualifying new personnel and upgrading others in their present teaching positions.

There are 192 persons, some of them from industry, currently seeking such aid in extension courses offered by the department in Altoona, Hershey, Shamokin, Wilkes-Barre and Williamsport.

These courses help teachers gain credits for their Bachelor of Science degrees and to meet requirements for temporary or permanent teaching certificates. They also help persons employed in industry to qualify for teaching positions.

Helped On Programs

Dr. S. Lewis Land, director of vocational education and head of Penn State's department of industrial education, says the program is set up each year according to the wants and needs of the area. The program itself was launched more than 30 years ago.

Among the counties assisted by the program over the years have been Adams, Bedford, Blair, Bradford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Columbia, Cumberland, Dauphin, Elk, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Luzerne, Lycoming, McKean, Mifflin, Montour, Northumberland, Perry, Potter, Snyder, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Wyoming and York.

Members of the department assisted in the organization and establishment of the Wyoming Valley Area Technical School, one of three state-approved technical schools, and helped school districts develop plans for about 50 industrial arts programs in new school buildings throughout Central Pennsylvania.

MONTREAL (AP) —Australian Lew Hoad, smashing cross-court placements with crisp accuracy, whipped Pancho Gonzales 6-3, 6-4 Tuesday night in the feature match of Jack Kramer's touring professional tennis show before 6,501.

Hoad combined with former Davis Cup mate Ashley Cooper to down Gonzales and Mal Anderson, another Australia, 8-6 in the doubles.

VOTE DONATION TO HEART FUND

A contribution was voted to the Heart Fund by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Alpha Fire Company No. 1 at the march meeting held on Monday evening in the engine house. Mrs. Anna Rebert, president, presided at the session, which opened with the pledge of allegiance and the Lord's Prayer in unison. Reports were heard from Mrs. Kathryn Hahn, secretary, and Mrs. Betty Kauffman, treasurer. The unit is selling candy for the benefit of the treasury and the candy was distributed on Monday. Money from the sales should be reported at the April meeting.

It was decided to hold a home products in connection with the next meeting on Monday, April 6, 8 p.m., at the engine house, and each member should take a guest. The following were appointed to comprise the April hostess committee: Mrs. Dorothy Burgoon, Mrs. Clara Kebil, Mrs. Frances Miller and Mrs. Manetta Redding. The March guess package was given by Mrs. Ottie Weaver and received by Mrs. Anna Rebert. During the social hour, group games were enjoyed and refreshments served by Mrs. Ruth Sneeringer, Mrs. Alice Hartsock, Mrs. Elva Weaver and Mrs. Mary Miller.

Brownies Meet

Brownie Scout Troop No. 61 met on Saturday in the engine house, when the girls learned to embroider, under the supervision of Mrs. George Schaefer. The group practiced for the dance to be presented by the Brownies of Littlestown at the annual Juliette Low rally on March 14 at the Gettysburg High School. The group was reminded that members of the troop are invited to attend the worship service at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday in Redeemer's United Church of Christ in observance of National Girl Scout Week; or those wishing may attend the installation service in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Sunday.

Troop No. 56 of Brownies met on Monday after school at the engine house, when the girls learned Scout laws 9 and 10 in charge of Mrs. James H. Spalding, leader. There was practice for the investiture ceremonies on Thursday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the engine house. The members are asked to bring their batons and flutes along to the meeting next Monday to continue practice for the investiture. There was also practice for participation in the program at the annual Juliette Low rally on March 14 in Gettysburg. The girls will wear their uniforms to the rally and also to attend the Sunday morning worship service in Redeemer's United Church of Christ.
